West Readies New Offer On Berlin Truce

Compromise Would Counter Price Soviet Asking For Freeze

GENEVA (AP)—A new Western compromise offer was reported Sunday night as Big Four foreign ministers faced a make-or-break phase in their quest for a Berlin truce.

The compromise would counter the price the Soviet Union is asking for putting her name to the hard-bargained deal being negotiated to freeze the Berlin crisis until 1961 or 1962.

After days of hesitation the Western Allies shelved their differences and agreed over the weekend to move a little way toward meeting a key Soviet demand. The Russians have been insisting that the deadly hostile East and West German regimes be brought into direct negotiation with each other—either in a Pan-German commission or in some other form—to shape the future of their divided land during the term of any Berlin truce.

Proposal Endorsed

The American-British-French proposal, which West Germany has endorsed, will be placed before Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Monday, when the Big Four meet first in secret, then in semipublic sessions.

U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter probably will bare its details on behalf of the British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville. Its terms, as disclosed in broad outline by Western authorities, seem in some respects to run against the essential Soviet demand for East-West German negotiations.

Accordingly there is no great hope that it will be accepted.

If Gromyko does reject it out of hand, the Big Four talks again will be at crisis point. And the side with the stronger nerves presumably will win out.

Mosaic Compromise

The Western counteroffer looks like a mosaic of compromise between conflicting East-West and inter-allied views.

1. It envisages a Big Four commission to preserve continuing responsibility for bringing about a German reunion and peace settlement.

2. It foresees various forms of East-West German contacts under the Big Four umbrella—but contacts that will fall short of full-scale negotiations of the kind the Russians propose. The two Germans could and would come together to discuss specific political and functional problems when ordered by the parent four-power body to do so.

3. It discards Russia's demand that the negotiating process on the wider problems of Germany should be part of any package deal on Berlin.

4. It amounts essentially to no more than a Western commitment that if a Berlin deal is concluded then Big Four talks on German unity and a peace pact will go forward along with limited forms of East-West German exchanges.

Smoke Fells Subway Patrons

NEW YORK (AP)—A fire broke out in an electrified subway rail Sunday and filled an East river subway tunnel with clouds of acrid smoke. More than 60 passengers were taken to hospitals to be treated for smoke poisoning.

Fire was discovered in a rail near the tunnel entrance on the Queens side. It was extinguished after about an hour. Firemen said a section of the rail had buckled, apparently causing a short circuit.

Two six-car trains carrying about 400 persons were headed for Grand Central Station, the line's first stop in Manhattan, when the fire started.

Power was shut off minutes after the blaze was discovered, halting trains in both directions. Passengers were led through emergency exits in the Grand Central area.

Vast Warning Network Nears $4 Billion Cost

WASHINGTON (AP)—The vast network designed to warn of approaching enemy planes or missiles is nearing four billion dollars in construction costs to the United States. The total will go higher.

This is just to put together the intricate radar and communications system operated by the Air Force on the North American continent.

This outlay accounts for the alarm system and only for a fraction of the total cost of the whole continental air defense complex, which has been expanding for a decade as the Soviet threat increases and changes technologically.

As an example, the Defense Department will have invested in only two fiscal years—the one that ended June 30 and the one that started July 1—about $8,900,000, 000 for warning system construction, the missiles, planes and ships deployed for use if the alarm is sounded, plus associated equipment.

Merely to operate the continental defense system costs more than 600 million dollars a year. Spent, or obligated or planned for, expenditure of four of the major warning systems comes to a total of about $3,885,000,000, figures provided by the Defense Department and other records showed Sunday.

This includes: 600 million dollars for the Distant Early Warning Line—DEW Line—in the Canadian Arctic; 285 million for the U.S. share of building the Pine-tree system along the area of the U.S.-Canadian border; two billion for the Semi-Automatic Ground Environment system—SAGE, which receives and automatically coordinates data from outer zones as well as closer in systems; one billion for the Ballistic Missiles Early Warning System—BMEWS, now being built.

Boy Shoots Storekeeper, Fatally Beats Young Girl

QUAKER, Mo. (AP)—A 19-year-old rural boy told authorities Sunday that he shot and killed a country storekeeper, beat a 17-year-old girl to death and critically wounded two other persons before he and his 14-year-old pal "wanted to go out and have a big time."

The dead were storeowner Lynn Barr, 57, of Quaker and Bobbie Lou Shipp of nearby Belgrade, Mo.

Washington County Sheriff Thomas B. Allen identified the young admitted killer as John Crump, and his companion as John Edward Davis, both of Huzzah, Mo., about 10 miles west of Quaker. The sheriff said Crump admitted both slayings. Barr's wife, Vallie, 52, was cut down by two shotgun blasts and their daughter, Ella Jo, 16, was severely beaten. Both were listed in critical condition in Bonne Terre, Mo., Hospital. Crump and Davis were being held without charge in Washington County jail.

Efforts Renewed In Steel Dispute

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Federal mediators renew efforts Monday to get the five-day-old nationwide steel dispute off center. The strike has idled most of the country's steel mills, half a million Steelworkers and 35,000 employees of allied industries.

The Steelworkers have been losing nearly 70 million dollars a week in wages since the strike started. Also lost is an estimated 300,000 tons of ingot steel production each day, which amounts to about 300 million dollars worth of business a week.

These figures do not include the wages and business losses resulting from the furloughing of some 35,000 employees of railroads, coal mines, iron ore mines, ore boats and other industries that depend on steel firms for business.

Joan O'Brien To Join Welk

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Joan O'Brien, who once sang on Bob Crosby's TV show, will be Lawrence Welk's new "Champagne Lady," at least for next Saturday night.

The 23-year-old singer-actress, an old friend of Welk's, told a reporter Sunday: "With Alice Lon out, Lawrence is in pretty much of a pinch. His agent contacted me about appearing next Saturday night. There will be three or four other girl singers after that and I think Lawrence will pretty much leave the selection of his next Champagne Lady up to his listeners."

Joan's screen career took a sharp upturn recently when she made the movie "Operation Petticoat" costarring with Cary Grant and Tony Curtis, but she said she would be interested in working permanently with the Welk band if negotiations can be worked out.

Miss Lon quit the band Saturday after a squabble with Welk over what he called "too much knee" displayed on one of the ABC-TV shows. She denied that her pose was suggestive.

Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, is scheduled to meet in New York Monday morning with chief industry negotiator R. Conrad Cooper and his aides.

In the afternoon, Finnegan has slated a session with President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers of America and his assistants. No joint industry-union bargaining sessions are scheduled.

The strike began at midnight last Tuesday. Finnegan, who met with both sides last Wednesday, said he didn't think the strike was "susceptible to easy or early solution."

President Eisenhower has been receiving daily reports on the situation from Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell.

The President said last week he would not use the Taft-Hartley Act to force reopening of the mills unless the nation's health or safety is in peril. He added that such conditions "are clearly not here at the moment."

The union has demanded a wage hike and better fringe benefits. Industry has refused to give in to these union demands because it says they would hike labor costs and steel prices and tend to inflate the nation's economy. The union contends the companies can grant wage hikes without increasing prices. Steelworkers' wages averaged $3.10 an hour before the strike.

Meantime, in Washington, Rep. Chester Bowles (D-Conn.) suggested Sunday that the steel strike be settled with a $15-a-ton rise in steel prices, leaving wages where they are.

Other members of Congress also called for action by a presidential fact-finding board.

Lightning Kills Four At Picnic

NEW YORK (AP)—Lightning struck in the picnic grounds of crowded Orchard Beach in the Bronx Sunday, killing three men and a woman.

About six miles away, near the Bronx Zoo, another bolt of lightning injured four persons.

The dead were Antonio Moya, 28, of the Bronx; Paul Joannides, 57, and his wife, Despina, 51, of the Bronx and a man tentatively identified as Pedro Rivera.

Police estimated 100,000 persons had thronged to the beach by the time the sky began to darken and thunder rumbled. The crowd scattered to seek shelter.

Moya's death was witnessed by his wife, Rosamelia; a stepdaughter, Mary, 10, and a friend, Carmen Colon, 21.

Mrs. Colon said Moya had started for a bus stop shelter with the others when he remembered he had left his guitar under a tree. She said he rushed back to get it when the bolt crashed down on him.

"There was a big light, like electricity, from the sky," Mrs. Colon said. "It was like fire from the sky. I heard a big noise. I looked up. Then I looked down, and I saw Antonio."

Fidel Castro Can Resume Premier Post

Cabinet Clears Way For Return Or His Naming Successor

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro, Cuba's boss, was generally expected Sunday to return to his job as premier or to hand-pick a successor who would carry out his directives.

The revolutionary chieftain resigned Friday night in a move that forced Manuel Urrutia out of the presidency on charges of near treason.

The Cabinet, meeting for the first time under a newly designated president, Osvaldo Dorticos Torrado, cleared the way late Saturday for Castro to resume the premiership. It refused to accept his resignation.

May Not Want Job

But Castro may not want to go back to the job. He has often said the premiership took up too much of the time that he would like to devote to the revolution—and especially to his pet project, the reorganization of Cuban agriculture. Until Castro makes up his mind—and he often is slow in such matters—Cuba has a standstill government. The Cabinet and President are not likely to make any important decisions until they know what the rebel chieftain is going to do.

Most Havana newspapers editorially applauded the Castro coup d'etat by television in which he lambasted Urrutia.

But the conservative Diario de la Marina, which often has been critical of Castro made no comment. Instead, it printed a small front-page box entitled "Word of the Day."

It quoted the words of Beethoven: "Submission. What a sad word. Nevertheless, it is the only refuge left for me."

The paper, following a blast from Castro, recently stopped publishing its column signed by "Volcano," one of the sharpest critics of Castro policies.

Words Find Support

Castro's strong words about Urrutia have found strong support among the masses of Cuban people, but the reaction in some middle and upper classes has been adverse. Some businessmen, who decline to be identified by name, said Castro's attack was "unnecessarily vulgar."

One of the charges flung at Urrutia was that he was collecting the same salary—10,000 pesos a month ($10,000 at the official rate)—as deposed President Fulgencio Batista. Castro said Urrutia had failed to cut his salary after Cabinet ministers had done so.

One of President Dorticos' first acts was to announce that he had trimmed his own salary to 2,500 pesos a month and would continue to live in his modest apartment. For the first time the president will not be living in the presidential palace that was completed in 1912. Dorticos said palace expenses would be trimmed by 1,200,000 pesos a year.

There was no indication that Urrutia would answer Castro's charges. He remained in seclusion at his brother-in-law's heavily guarded home at nearby Bauta. Dorticos told newsmen he thought Urrutia would remain in Cuba, and if he did he would be given the protection he desired.

Vandals Burn Art Exhibits, Paint Walls In Museum

Scrawl Symbols Of Nazi Regime On Jewish Houses Of Worship

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP)—Fire destroyed three art collections in a Columbus Museum Saturday night. The arsonists—apparently thrill-seeking vandals—left six swastikas painted on the walls as their calling cards.

Similar swastikas, symbol of Hitler's Nazi regime, have been scrawled on outer walls of two Jewish houses of worship in this west Georgia city since Wednesday night.

Police had no definite clues. "We've really got a job on our hands," detective Lt. B. F. McGuffey said Sunday.

The destroyed art collections were valued at more than $15,000. A preliminary estimate placed damage to the two-story, stucco building—the Columbus Museum of Arts and Crafts—at $5,000.

Cases Of Vandalism

McGuffey said authorities feel the three Columbus incidents are merely cases of vandalism and do not have any serious racial significance, such as the dynamiting of a Jewish temple in Atlanta Oct. 12, 1958. That blast caused nearly $100,000 damage and led to the indictment of five men. One man has been acquitted and charges apparently will be dropped against another. But Atlanta authorities said last month they intend to bring the other three to trial later.

"This—the Columbus cases—looks more like somebody out on a thrill spree," said McGuffey. But he declined to speculate that the swastikas and fire were the work of excitement-hungry teen-agers.

"It could have been anybody, any age," he said.

How the arsonists gained entry to the building has not been established. McGuffey said police found one door which could have been opened with a knife without leaving any signs of forced entry. Or someone could have remained hidden in the museum when it closed at 5:30 Saturday afternoon.

The revised production figures were issued by the Commerce Department's Office of Business Economics and will appear in the July issue of the department's monthly survey of current business.

The new statistics show that the impact of the business recession on national income and production was smaller last year than had been supposed.

The gross national product—the dollar value of all goods and services produced—was reported at 441½ billion in 1958. This was only one billion below the peak of 442½ achieved in 1957, and was nearly four billion dollars higher than the earlier estimates of last year's output.

Part of the showing was attributable to price increases, the department said. In physical terms, 1958 production was about 2½ per cent below 1957 and even slightly less than that of 1956.

Family Of Eight Rescued After Two Days In Desert Without Food, Water

MOAB, Utah (AP)—A family of eight—including six children aged 4 to 12—was rescued Sunday after more than two days stranded in the hot southeastern Utah desert without food or water.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Viril B. Scott of Murray, Utah, was trucked and flown to the Moab airport from the remote Country of Standing Rocks near the confluence of the Green and Colorado Rivers.

Scott said they survived by rationing a pint of water from the auto's radiator, eating some salmon egg fish bait, and digging into the dirt to keep out of the heat and sun.

"We are filthy dirty from dirt paths from our heads down," Scott said as relatives took him from the airport to their home to rest.

Speaking slowly so as to make his cracked voice audible, he said: "When two fliers reached us this morning the kids were bursting with laughter and then they started to cry—and so did we. . . . I don't see how we survived as long as we did and I'm sure we couldn't have made it through today. . . . Prayer and the Lord helped us. . . ."

Scott said he and his wife and children had no food nor water from the time they left Moab Friday at 7 a.m. until two Civil Air patrol fliers landed in the rugged area and hiked to them Sunday about 5:30 a.m.

After the fliers reached them, a pickup truck finally negotiated the rough uranium prospector's road and took them between five and 10 miles to a point where two other planes landed. From there they were flown to Moab.

The point where they were stranded is described as about 40 air miles southwest of Moab in the wild, desolate and deeply chasmed rock country through which the Green and Colorado Rivers snake until they meet near Cataract Canyon.

The Scotts left Friday morning, planning a drive to Dead Horse Point. This is a high bluff which affords a breathtaking view of the convolutions of the Colorado River gorge.

But Scott said they took a couple of wrong turns and became lost on what is known as Shafer Trail. This is a former cow trail widened to jeep width in recent years for the use of uranium prospectors.

Scott said they drove about 50 miles, broke the car's radiator and lost most of the liquid from it. But they continued driving until they broke the crank case oil pan.

He said, "We survived by keeping cool under the dirt, drinking water—about a pint from the radiator, one spoonful every 2½ hrs. All we had to eat was some salmon eggs and we tried to eat cactus but our mouths were so dry we couldn't swallow it. . . . We gave the children the radiator water after trying to purify it by straining it several times. . . . It had a permanent type antifreeze in it"—instead of the poisonous denatured alcohol type.

The children, he said, were "just grand" through it all. He said a doctor examining them at the airport said they were in better condition than should be expected after such an ordeal.

Scott is 36 years old. His wife, Laura, is 35. Their six children are: Virlene, 12; Laurene, 10; Diane, 9; Byron, 7; Duwayne, 5, and Le-

Near Civil War Erupts At Kirkuk

Premier Kassem Says Accounts Will Be Settled With Reds

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—A pro-Communist revolt and army mutiny at Kirkuk, busy oil center in northeastern Iraq, was reported Sunday to have resulted in near civil war and hundreds of casualties.

The outbreak brought from Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem an angry declaration that "we will settle accounts" with the Communists and mutineers. It was his strongest declaration yet against the Reds.

Press reports in Cairo and Damascus, capitals of Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic, said fighting started Wednesday while Iraq was still celebrating the July 14 anniversary of Kassem's 1958 anti-royalist revolution, and that clashes were still going on. The U.A.R. press described the fighting as near civil war.

Minimizes Clashes

But Ahmed Saleh Abdi, Iraqi military governor, in a Baghdad broadcast minimized the scope of armed clashes and said a normal situation had been restored.

He said "some incidents disturbing to the peace" occurred and "these led to attacks on, and damage to, certain places" in Kirkuk.

U.A.R. press reports said local army and police units in Kirkuk, a city of approximately 70,000, about 150 miles north of Baghdad, fought with Communist demonstrators on Wednesday and 27 persons were killed and 150 injured.

The local authorities had about regained control, these reports said, when the 2nd brigade of the 2nd army division mutinied, killed the deputy division commander, blew up bridges and seized strategic points in and around the city.

The bodies of at least 15 persons, including the commander, Turcoman tribesmen and leading local personalities, were reported handed or dragged through the streets.

The reports said there were incidents elsewhere in Iraq, including an attack on one of Kassem's top aides in Baghdad who died of wounds.

Slaps Down Reds

On the eve of the July 14 anniversary, Kassem slapped down the Communists by reorganizing his Cabinet and giving no places to known card-carrying Reds, though some fellow travelers were included.

He referred to the Kirkuk disorders Sunday in a speech before the altar of the Catholic Church of Saint Mary in Baghdad. The religious ceremony before prelates of the Roman, Armenian, Syrian and Chaldean rites was to invoke God's blessing on the Republic and was the conclusion of the celebration of the anniversary of the revolution.

The proceedings were broadcast by Baghdad Radio.

Without going into details of what occurred, Kassem said "I strongly condemn what happened recently in Kirkuk."

"From this day onward all units of the army will obey only an order emanating from headquarters," he went on.

"We will settle accounts with any and all who attack the liberty of the people—especially in Kirkuk, but also in other cities and villages of Iraq or in the countryside."

Allen said Crump told him the pair bought six or eight bottles of beer in a tavern near Huzzah Saturday night and drank them, then abandoned a car near Quaker and entered Barr's store.

There they ordered sandwiches and as Barr was preparing one Crump raised a 12-gauge, pump-action shotgun and shot Barr in the back of the head, the sheriff said.

He quoted them as saying they intended to get Barr's car. They ran to Barr's home nearby and ordered Mrs. Barr at gunpoint to hand over the car keys.

She refused and made a dash for the door. Crump told the sheriff he shot her twice, but she managed to stagger outside. He then proceeded to beat the two girls with the shotgun, inflicting "fatal injuries on Bobbie Lou."

Crump and Davis fled on foot. Meanwhile, Mrs. Barr attracted the attention of Hurlen Gilliam who was passing by. He called authorities.

NEW YORK (AP) — Lightning struck in the picnic grounds of crowded Orchard Beach in the Bronx Sunday, killing three men and a woman.

About six miles away, near the Bronx Zoo, another bolt of lightning injured four persons.

The dead were Antonio Moya, 28, of the Bronx; Paul Joannides, 57, and his wife, Despina, 51, of the Bronx and a man tentatively identified as Pedro Rivera.

Police estimated 100,000 persons had thronged to the beach by the time the sky began to darken and thunder rumbled. The crowd scattered to seek shelter.

Moya's death was witnessed by his wife, Rosamaria, a stepdaughter, Mary, 10, and a friend, Carmen Colon, 21.

Mrs. Colon said Moya had started for a bus stop shelter with the others when he remembered he had left his guitar under a tree. She said he rushed back to get it when the bolt crashed down on him.

"There was a big light, like electricity, from the sky," Mrs. Colon said. "It was like fire from the sky. I heard a big noise. I looked up. Then I looked down, and I saw Antonio."

ARICA, Chile (AP) — A strong and prolonged earth shock sent residents fleeing from their homes here Sunday. The shock was felt in a wide area in northern Chile but no damage was reported.

Fidel Castro Can Resume Premier Post

Cabinet Clears Way For Return Or His Naming Successor

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro, Cuba's boss, was generally expected Sunday to return to his job as premier or to hand-pick a successor who would carry out his directives.

The revolutionary chieftain resigned Friday night in a move that forced Manuel Urrutia out of the presidency on charges of near treason.

The Cabinet, meeting for the first time under a newly designated president, Osvaldo Dorticos Torrado, cleared the way late Saturday for Castro to resume the premiership. It refused to accept his resignation.

May Not Want Job

But Castro may not want to go back to the job. He has often said the premiership took up too much of the time that he would like to devote to the revolution—and especially to his pet project, the reorganization of Cuban agriculture.

Until Castro makes up his mind—and he often is slow in such matters—Cuba has a standstill government. The Cabinet and President are not likely to make any important decisions until they know what the rebel chieftain is going to do.

Most Havana newspapers editorially applauded the Castro coup d'etat by television in which he lambasted Urrutia.

But the conservative Diario de la Marina, which often has been critical of Castro made no comment. Instead, it printed a small front-page box entitled "Word of the Day."

It quoted the words of Beethoven: "Submission. What a sad word. Nevertheless, it is the only refuge left for me."

The paper, following a blast from Castro, recently stopped publishing its column signed by "Volcano," one of the sharpest critics of Castro politics.

Words Find Support

Castro's strong words about Urrutia have found strong support among the masses of Cuban people, but the reaction in some middle and upper classes has been adverse. Some businessmen, who decline to be identified by name, said Castro's attack was "unnecessarily vulgar."

One of the charges flung at Urrutia was that he was collecting the same salary—10,000 pesos a month ($10,000 at the official rate)—as deposed President Fulgencio Batista. Castro said Urrutia had failed to cut his salary after Cabinet ministers had done so.

One of President Dorticos' first acts was to announce that he had trimmed his own salary to 2,500 pesos a month and would continue to live in his modest apartment. For the first time the presidential palace that was completed in 1912, Dorticos said palace expenses would be trimmed by 1,200,000 pesos a year.

There was no indication that Urrutia would answer Castro's charges. He remained in seclusion at his brother-in-law's heavily guarded home at nearby Bauta. Dorticos told newsmen he thought Urrutia would remain in Cuba, and if he did he would be given the protection he desired.

Vandals Burn Art Exhibits, Paint Walls In Museum

Scrawl Symbols Of Nazi Regime On Jewish Houses Of Worship

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP)—Fire destroyed three art collections in a Columbus Museum Saturday night. The arsonists—apparently thrill-seeking vandals—left six swastikas painted on the walls as their calling cards.

U.S. Business Output Shows Big Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—National output in the first quarter of this year was reported Sunday by the Commerce Department to have reached a rate exceeding 470 billion dollars a year. This was three billion more than had been estimated previously.

The new figures suggested that second-quarter production, on which the first official estimate will appear early next week, may have reached a rate of 482 billion dollars annually or more.

The rapidity of the business recovery shown by the revised figures makes it a probability—rather than an outside possibility—that the American economy will pass the half-trillion-dollar production rate in the last quarter of 1959.

As recently as two months ago most government economists had not expected the 500-billion mark would be reached until the middle of 1960.

The target could be missed, however, if the steel strike lasts so long that factories run out of their stockpiles and begin to slash production schedules or shut down.

The revised production figures were issued by the Commerce Department's Office of Business Economics and will appear in the July issue of the department's monthly survey of current business.

The new statistics show that the impact of the business recession on national income and production was smaller last year than had been supposed.

The gross national product—the dollar value of all goods and services produced—was reported at 441½ billion in 1958. This was only one billion below the peak of 442½ achieved in 1957, and was nearly four billion dollars higher than the earlier estimates of last year's output.

Part of the showing was attributable to price increases, the department said. In physical terms, 1958 production was about 2½ per cent below 1957 and even slightly less than that of 1956.

Amusement Park Is 'Off Limits'

MOUNT MAKILING, Philippines (AP)—An enterprising operator has set up an amusement park just outside the entrance to the camp where 12,000 Boy Scouts are gathered for a world jamboree.

But business is bad. The scouts are forbidden to visit the park. "Anybody caught there will be sent home," the camp newspaper warned.

Family Of Eight Rescued After Two Days In Desert Without Food, Water

MOAB, Utah (AP)—A family of eight—including six children aged 4 to 12—was rescued Sunday after more than two days stranded in the hot southeastern Utah desert without food or water.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Viril B. Scott of Murray, Utah, was trucked and flown to the Moab airport from the remote Country of Standing Rocks near the confluence of the Green and Colorado Rivers.

Scott said they survived by rationing a pint of water from the auto's radiator, eating some salmon egg fish bait, and digging into the dirt to keep out of the heat and sun.

"We are filthy dirty from dirt baths from our heads down," Scott said as relatives took him from the airport to their home to rest.

Speaking slowly so as to make his cracked voice audible, he said: "When two fliers reached us this morning the kids were bursting with laughter and then they started to cry—and so did we. . . I don't see how we survived as long as we did and I'm sure we couldn't have made it through today. . . . Prayer and the Lord helped us. . . ."

Scott said he and his wife and children had no food nor water from the time they left Moab Friday at 7 a.m. until two Civil Air patrol fliers landed in the rugged area and hiked to them Sunday about 5:30 a.m.

After the fliers reached them, a pickup truck finally negotiated the rough uranium prospector's road and took them between five and 10 miles to a point where two other planes landed. From there they were flown to Moab.

The point where they were stranded is described as about 40 air miles southwest of Moab in the wild, desolate and deeply chasmed rock country through which the Green and Colorado Rivers snake until they meet near Cataract Canyon.

The Scotts left Friday morning, planning a drive to Dead Horse Point. This is a high bluff which affords a breathtaking view of the convolutions of the Colorado River gorge.

But Scott said they took a couple of wrong turns and became lost on what is known as Shafer Trail. This is a former cow trail widened to jeep width in recent years for the use of uranium prospectors.

Similar swastikas, symbol of Hitler's Nazi regime, have been scrawled on outer walls of two Jewish houses of worship in this west Georgia city since Wednesday night.

Police had no definite clues. "We've really got a job on our hands," detective Lt. B. F. McGuffey said Sunday.

The destroyed art collections were valued at more than $15,000. A preliminary estimate placed damage to the two-story, stucco building—the Columbus Museum of Arts and Crafts—at $5,000.

Cases Of Vandalism

McGuffey said authorities feel the three Columbus incidents are merely cases of vandalism and do not have any serious racial significance, such as the dynamiting of a Jewish temple in Atlanta Oct. 12, 1958. That blast caused nearly $100,000 damage and led to the indictment of five men. One man has been acquitted and charges apparently will be dropped against another. But Atlanta authorities said last month they intend to bring the other three to trial later.

"This—the Columbus cases—looks more like somebody out on a thrill spree," said McGuffey.

But he declined to speculate that the swastikas and fire were the work of excitement-hungry teen-agers.

"It could have been anybody, any age," he said.

How the arsonists gained entry to the building has not been established. McGuffey said police found one door which could have been opened with a knife without leaving any signs of forced entry. Or someone could have remained hidden in the museum when it closed at 5:30 Saturday afternoon.

Automatic Alarm

Firemen, summoned about 11:15 p.m. by an automatic alarm system, had to break open a door to get inside.

McGuffey said the swastikas at the museum and the two Jewish houses of worship were similar—"it's a possibility they were done by the same persons."

Swastikas were splashed on the Shearith Israel synagogue late Friday or early Saturday with red paint and the words "Heil Hitler" were scrawled on the back door. Wednesday night the Nazi crosses were made with yellow paint on the Temple Israel.

Fuels To Become More Powerful

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fuels for sending men and missiles into space can become 50 per cent more powerful in the next decade than present propellants, industry experts predicted Sunday.

Nuclear, or exotic fuels, they said, could increase the thrust of the big booster rockets fourfold.

This report by technical committees of the Aerospace Industries Assn. is an annual forecast of trends in achievements and engineering problems of the aeronautics, missile and aviation field over a 10-year period.

Near Civil War Erupts At Kirkuk

Premier Kassem Says Accounts Will Be Settled With Reds

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A pro-Communist revolt and army mutiny at Kirkuk, busy oil center in northeastern Iraq, was reported Sunday to have resulted in near civil war and hundreds of casualties.

The outbreak brought from Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem an angry declaration that "we will settle accounts" with the Communists and mutineers. It was his strongest declaration yet against the Reds.

Press reports in Cairo and Damascus, capitals of Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic, said fighting started Wednesday while Iraq was still celebrating the July 14 anniversary of Kassem's 1958 anti-royalist revolution, and that clashes were still going on. The U.A.R. press described the fighting as near civil war.

Minimizes Clashes

But Ahmed Saleh Abdi, Iraqi military governor, in a Baghdad broadcast minimized the scope of armed clashes and said a normal situation had been restored.

He said "some incidents disturbing to the peace" occurred and "these led to attacks on, and damage to, certain places" in Kirkuk.

U.A.R. press reports said local army and police units in Kirkuk, a city of approximately 70,000, about 150 miles north of Baghdad, fought with Communist demonstrators on Wednesday and 27 persons were killed and 150 injured.

The local authorities had about regained control, these reports said, when the 2nd brigade of the 2nd army division mutinied, killed the deputy division commander, blew up bridges and seized strategic points in and around the city.

The bodies of at least 15 persons, including the commander, Turcoman tribesmen and leading local personalities, were reported hanged or dragged through the streets.

The reports said there were incidents elsewhere in Iraq, including an attack on one of Kassem's top aides in Baghdad who died of wounds.

Slaps Down Reds

On the eve of the July 14 anniversary, Kassem slapped down the Communists by reorganizing his Cabinet and giving no places to known card-carrying Reds, though some fellow travelers were included.

He referred to the Kirkuk disorders Sunday in a speech before the altar of the Catholic Church of Saint Mary in Baghdad. The religious ceremony before prelates of the Roman, Armenian, Syrian and Chaldean rites was to invoke God's blessing on the Republic and was the conclusion of the celebration of the anniversary of the revolution.

The proceedings were broadcast by Baghdad Radio.

Without going into details of what occurred, Kassem said "I strongly condemn what happened recently in Kirkuk."

"From this day onward all units of the army will obey only an order emanating from headquarters," he went on.

"We will settle accounts with any and all who attack the liberty of the people—especially in Kirkuk, but also in other cities and villages of Iraq or in the countryside."

U.S. Plane Accused Of Air Violation

TOKYO (AP) — Peiping radio said a U.S. Navy aircraft violated Chinese Communist air space over Pingtan and White Dog islands off the coastal province of Fukien Sunday and added that a Red foreign ministry spokesman was "authorized to issue its 58th serious warning against the intrusion."

76 Girls Vie In Pageant

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Seventy-six of the world's most beautiful young women rode on floats Sunday in a huge parade which was a preliminary event in the Miss Universe contest.

Crowds estimated at 200,000 lined the parade route to see the girls dressed in official contest bathing suits. The weather was warm and sunny.

The afternoon parade included 22 bands, marching military units, motorized units and equestrian groups. Forty-six of the girls whose age range from 18 to 25 are from the United States; the other 30 are foreign entries.

Actual judging will begin on Tuesday night. Miss Universe will be chosen Friday night.

In Sunday's parade, spectators were given ballots to vote for "Miss Popularity." Reporters and photographers voted for "Miss Photogenic."

The long procession was headed by Luz Maria Zuluaga, of Colombia, last year's winner, and by Arlene Howell, Miss Howell, of Louisiana, was Miss United States in last year's competition.

Governors Saying Little About Presidential Race

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's governors, who may have a great deal to say about the presidential race, are playing hard to get in the scramble for 1960 presidential nomination support.

Of 45 governors who responded to an Associated Press canvass, 24 said it is too early to commit themselves to any potential candidate in the nomination convention now a year away.

Among 14 Democrats willing to take a public position, the governors of Connecticut, Massachusetts and Wyoming said they prefer Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.).

Gov. Gaylord A. Nelson of Wisconsin named Kennedy, Adlai E. Stevenson and Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) as among the most likely nominees, without choosing among them. Gov. Albert D. Rosellini of Washington added Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) to this list without stating any preference among the four.

Gov. James T. Blair Jr. of Missouri said he is for Symington and has no other choices. Gov. Orville L. Freeman of Minnesota supports Humphrey. Gov. Ralph

Man Drowns Saving Son

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A 37-year-old Nutley, N. J., man died saving his 4-year-old son after a boat fire in Chesapeake Bay Saturday.

The boy and his 12-year-old sister were rescued unharmed but the father drowned before help could reach him.

The dead man was Albert Latona, superintendent in charge of installing a cafeteria at the new naval hospital building in nearby Portsmouth.

Latona took his son John and daughter Anne out in a borrowed skiff Saturday around 5 p. m. About 150 yards off shore the boat's outboard motor burst into flames.

Eyewitnesses on the beach said they saw Latona throw life preservers overboard. But apparently he threw them too far to be reached.

Although he could not swim, Latona grabbed a child in each arm and jumped overboard.

H. L. Harris, from whom Latona borrowed the boat, said: "The girl managed to swim by herself."

"I could see Latona holding up the boy. I didn't see him go under once."

"Two other boats got to them in minutes and brought them ashore."

Latona was given artificial respiration and firemen used a resuscitator on him for an hour in an effort to revive him. He was pronounced dead at 6:12 p. m.

Latona came here in April with his wife, John, Anne and another daughter, Patricia, 8.

License Law For Hospitals Taken To Task

BALTIMORE (AP)—Hyman Pressman said Sunday there is a loophole in the Maryland law governing the licensing of hospitals and this is "only a part of the wide gap . . . which makes it possible to set up a 'meat house' type of hospital" in this State.

Pressman, Baltimore lawyer, said that even without a "meat house" type of hospital, "the deficiency of the law is far from being simply academic."

He cited as an example a varicose vein operation performed on a client of his recently at Baltimore City Hospitals. The patient emerged from the operating room "with a hole in her back, caused by a chemical burn," said Pressman.

"My investigation disclosed that not one person in the operating room during this major operation had a license to practice either medicine or surgery in Maryland," he said.

Pressman said the incident resulted in a lawsuit, which was settled out of court.

Pressman made the disclosure in a statement commenting on the recent controversy over Maryland hospital licensing laws. Dr. R. Walter Graham, Baltimore city comptroller and formerly an active surgeon, initiated the controversy when urging the city to buy abandoned Sinai Hospital in East Baltimore. He said this would prevent the property from falling into the hands of practitioners who might turn it into a "meat house."

In public discussions involving Graham and a spokesman for the State Board of Medical Examiners, it was emphasized that State law makes it possible for a group of doctors to set up a properly licensed hospital and then practice surgery or other specialties for which they are not qualified.

This is because the law sets up sanitation standards and similar requirements, but it does not govern the qualifications of hospital personnel and their work.

Italian Fashions Go Back To 30s

ROME (AP)—Italy's fashion tania or Normandie a good general has just plain gone back to the era of Long-leaped suits. New Deal days of the 30s for its with straight skirts and hip-length jackets could have gone to market when prewar prices were more and deep hats have been brought up to less austere times.

Valentino, a newcomer to Roman couture, exemplified this trend as did several old-timers before him. Valentino presented his first official collection on the last official day of fall-winter featured plunging back décolletés.

Valentino used crusted lame in the showings here. The Italian showings leave Rome and resume in Florence Monday. Belled, double-breasted over-flying stoles were as frequent as coats in heavy tweeds and plaids those wide-set lapels which ask which were paraded in his palatial showrooms might have made colds.

The four-day Rome show wound up with a flashy presentation of fall and winter men's clothes by Roman tailor Angelo Litrico, whose color combinations would have startled a peacock. One of his numbers—a red shirt, white tie, gray jacket combination—even startled the customers.

Midland Council Adopts Anti-Junk Yard Ordinance

MIDLAND—Mayor Lionel D. Baker and the Town Council voted to enact an ordinance prohibiting junkyard operations within the town. The second and final reading was passed by the council. The ordinance states that no person, partnership or corporation will be allowed to operate scrap metal operations on public or private property.

Provisions include storage of used metal, wood or other types of material and the sale or trading of scrap materials, used wood and various materials as a full time business or part-time occupation. Citizens are warned to clean up all used wood piles, metal or other materials. Violations will result in a fine of $100.

Among other activities council approved a report of receipts and disbursements given by J. Edwin Winters, city treasurer. This was from July 1, 1958 to June 30, 1959. Receipts totaled $10,480.35 with $3,426.25 from municipal taxes; $863.67 from licenses and $2930.77 from gasoline and motor vehicle taxes. Receipts from race track taxes totaled $1030.50; income, Bank Stock and Admission taxes, $759.89. Allegany County appropriation $840 and $112 from miscellaneous.

Bank balance July 1, 1958 was $517.47.

Disbursements totaled $8500.47. Capital outlay for the street department included $3384 for blacktopping, and $465.07 to the Allegany County Commissioners for shale to repair streets and roads and $974.31 for miscellaneous labor and hauling. Capital outlay for the water department took $313.44 for water hydrants. The street light department accounted for $1048.62 for street lights. Other expenditures include supplies $314.11; commission on taxes $142.17, dues to Maryland Municipal League, $40; purchase of lot for community playground, $774.35.

Bank balance, June 30, 1959 was $1979.88, and street lighting fund, $596.05.

Building Permits

Harry Youngblood, newly elected city clerk was instructed by Mayor Baker that any person or persons wishing to build in the city limits must obtain a building permit. Cost of said permit will be $1.25. A tappage charge of $25 will be made for any person or persons wishing to tap or connect with any public sewer.

Council voted approval of the increase in the proposed dues of the Maryland Municipal League. Melvin Loar, light commissioner was instructed by Mayor Baker to contact Ervin Lewis in regard to the street light near the residence of John Kilduff, and was also given permission to have a light and switch placed opposite the residence of John Cesnick, for the purpose of securing connections for a proposed Christmas community tree.

Signs Damaged

Street Commissioner Donald Cook reported that vandals had mutilated and destroyed "Slow Down" and "Stop" signs, and signs placed near the city dump. Council instructed the bailiff to apprehend any person or persons who are destroying signs.

Complaints of the terrible odors from George's Creek, due to the shortage of water in the creek were received by the council. Mayor Baker proposed that lime be scattered in every offensive location along the creek.

A discussion of the proposal to make Main or Broadway Street one-way to traffic was postponed until the next meeting of the council. Adoption of this proposal would also make Chestnut Street one-way. Several bad accidents have occurred in the past year on Broad Street and it is hoped that by making this street one-way these accidents would be eliminated, officials said.

Commissioner Alex Rennie reported that a basketball court on the new playground is completed and six new baskets are now being used by the children. Mayor Baker reported that he hoped that all organizations of the town would help to purchase playground equipment for the children. Commissioner Rennie also proposed that street markers for all the principal streets be purchased.

Jack Tennant Resigns Keyser College Post

KEYSER — Jack Tennant, psychology instructor at Potomac State the past two years, has resigned his position to accept a job in the school system of Fairfax County, Virginia, as a guidance counselor.

Recommended for appointment to replace him is Jack Marsteller Hartman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Minn. Hartman, Moorefield, and husband of the former Miss Joan Gerstell, of Keyser.

President E. F. Hurch said Hartman is a native of Elkins. Following his graduation from Moorefield High School, he served with the U.S. Army and as an aviation officer for the Medium Security Prison System of West Virginia.

Hartman attended Potomac State College from 1953 to 1955 and with the exception of one B-plus had a straight-A average. He continued his education at West Virginia University where he was awarded an AB degree in 1957 with sociology and psychology as his major fields and was granted a master's degree this year, having completed the course in psychology and counseling.

Hartman is presently employed by the Guidance and Rehabilitation Service for the State of Maryland. Pending approval by the Board of Governors, he will become a member of the Potomac State faculty August 1 and will serve the school as psychology instructor and head of the guidance and counseling program.

Three other additions to the college faculty include Dr. Louise McNeill Pease, instructor in English and history; Jerry L. Essex, instructor in chemistry and physical science, and Philip J. Faini, full-time band director for both the college and military bands.

ASSIGNED — Pvt. Robert J. Barbe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Barbe, RFD No. 1, Elk Garden, W. Va., has been assigned to Company C, 15th Battalion, 5th Training Regiment at Fort Jackson, S.C., for eight weeks basic combat training.

Luke Council Planning New Street Lights

LUKE — The Mayor and Commissioners of Luke have had a 20,000 lumen mercury lamp installed in front of the Devon Club as an experiment.

Council is considering putting up seven such lights on a permanent basis, according to Elmer May, clerk. City officials are also considering the installation of 25 parking meters on Pratt Street.

The steps from Pratt Street to Luke Hill have been repaired and new hand rails installed. A triangular pylon has been erected at the corner of Pratt and Railroad streets to prevent vehicular traffic from moving into Railroad Street, a one-way street.

A new guard rail has been placed along the road at the south end of Pratt Street and a new fire plug has been installed on Fairview Street.

As several complaints have been received about burning trash in back yards, council has arranged to have trash picked up on any day that is not a garbage collection day. To have trash hauled away, residents are to place it on the curb in front of their homes or contact the town foreman.

Signs Damaged — Street Commissioner Donald Cook reported that vandals had mutilated and destroyed "Slow Down" and "Stop" signs, and signs placed near the city dump. Council instructed the bailiff to apprehend any person or persons who are destroying signs.

Complaints of the terrible odors from George's Creek, due to the shortage of water in the creek were received by the council. Mayor Baker proposed that lime be scattered in every offensive location along the creek.

A discussion of the proposal to make Main or Broadway Street one-way to traffic was postponed until the next meeting of the council. Adoption of this proposal would also make Chestnut Street one-way. Several bad accidents have occurred in the past year on Broad Street and it is hoped that by making this street one-way these accidents would be eliminated, officials said.

Commissioner Alex Rennie reported that a basketball court on the new playground is completed and six new baskets are now being used by the children. Mayor Baker reported that he hoped that all organizations of the town would help to purchase playground equipment for the children. Commissioner Rennie also proposed that street markers for all the principal streets be purchased.

Showing Off The Savannah

Mamie Eisenhower will wield the traditional bottle of champagne against the hull of the world's first nuclear-powered merchant ship, the N. S. Savannah, on Tuesday at Camden, N. J. All eyes of course will be on the future, and there will doubtless be references to President Eisenhower's statement of October 15, 1956 calling the ship "a floating laboratory . . . a forerunner of atomic merchant and passenger fleets which one day will unite the nations of the world in peaceful trade."

That rosy future, however, is a long way off. Viewed in purely economic terms, the Savannah will be a sea-going white elephant. The required investment—about $42.5 million—and the poor cargo-to-size ratio badly overbalance the advantage conferred by relatively low operating costs. Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, asked in May to evaluate the commercial prospects of atom-powered cargo vessels, answered with one syllable: "Dim!"

But then few expect the Savannah to bring in a six per cent return, either in dollars or scientific data. It is a demonstration project, one that can be sailed the world over to show off American skill and, more important, to prove our sincerity about beating swords into plowshares.

And an impressive exhibit it will be. Sleek and modern in design, the Savannah will have a maximum power capacity of 74 million watts and will be able to sail 300,000 nautical miles without refueling—that is, for about three full years. These whopping statistics are likely to make the Savannah as effective an instrument of U.S. foreign policy as we've sent abroad since the days of (sh-h-h) gunboat diplomacy.

The Summit Puzzle

No matter how one analyzes the Russian pressure for a summit conference, it does not add up. The Geneva Conference could have reached some conclusion; it did not because obviously Khrushchev will not permit a conclusion to be reached except when he is present. All the time that the last Geneva Conference was in session, he sabotaged it from the sidelines. Now that another Geneva Conference is in session, it will be interesting to see whether he can remain silent for the duration.

According to Frol Kozlov, the current Geneva Conference will propose an 18-month truce. The best hope for it is that the entire subject of Berlin will be postponed until 1961, which is a long way off. Perhaps the Russians are hopeful that the 1960 election in the United States will bring Democrats into office and that they will fare better with a Democrat than with a Republican. Surely, there can be no basis for such a treasable thought. Kozlov must have learned that so far as Russia is concerned we are a united people.

There is a further weakness in Russian thought on the summit conference. It is based on the assumption that the President of the United States can do as he chooses. Perhaps the Russians have reached that conclusion from Stalin's experience with Franklin D. Roosevelt at Teheran and Yalta. Roosevelt always went off on his own and managed to get the Senate to go along with him.

Senator Arthur Vandenberg, who was the Republican leader in foreign affairs during Roosevelt's Administrations, went along with the President although he had started his career as a Middle Western isolationist. In fact, except for a few irreconcilables, Roosevelt had little trouble with his Republicans.

However, times are different now and no President can do many of the things Roosevelt did or assume such great national obligations as Roosevelt did at Yalta. It would not be tolerated today.

What a summit conference entails for a President of the United States is a constant pressure on the part of the Russians for an immediate decision on specific matters which are beyond the authority of the President to make without "the advice and consent of the Senate. And when a matter involves Senatorial consent, it also involves open debate and free discussion in the press.

Roosevelt had a war to help him. Eisenhower does not have equal power of secrecy and censorship. As a matter of fact, the American people regard the present indirect censorship as excessive and there can be little question but that sooner or later the chairman of some Congressional committee will make himself a reputation by exposing the free use of such rubber stamps as "Classified," "Secret," etc. This can be and undoubtedly is a form of censorship not authorized by an act of Congress but characteristically retained by military men and other officials since war days.

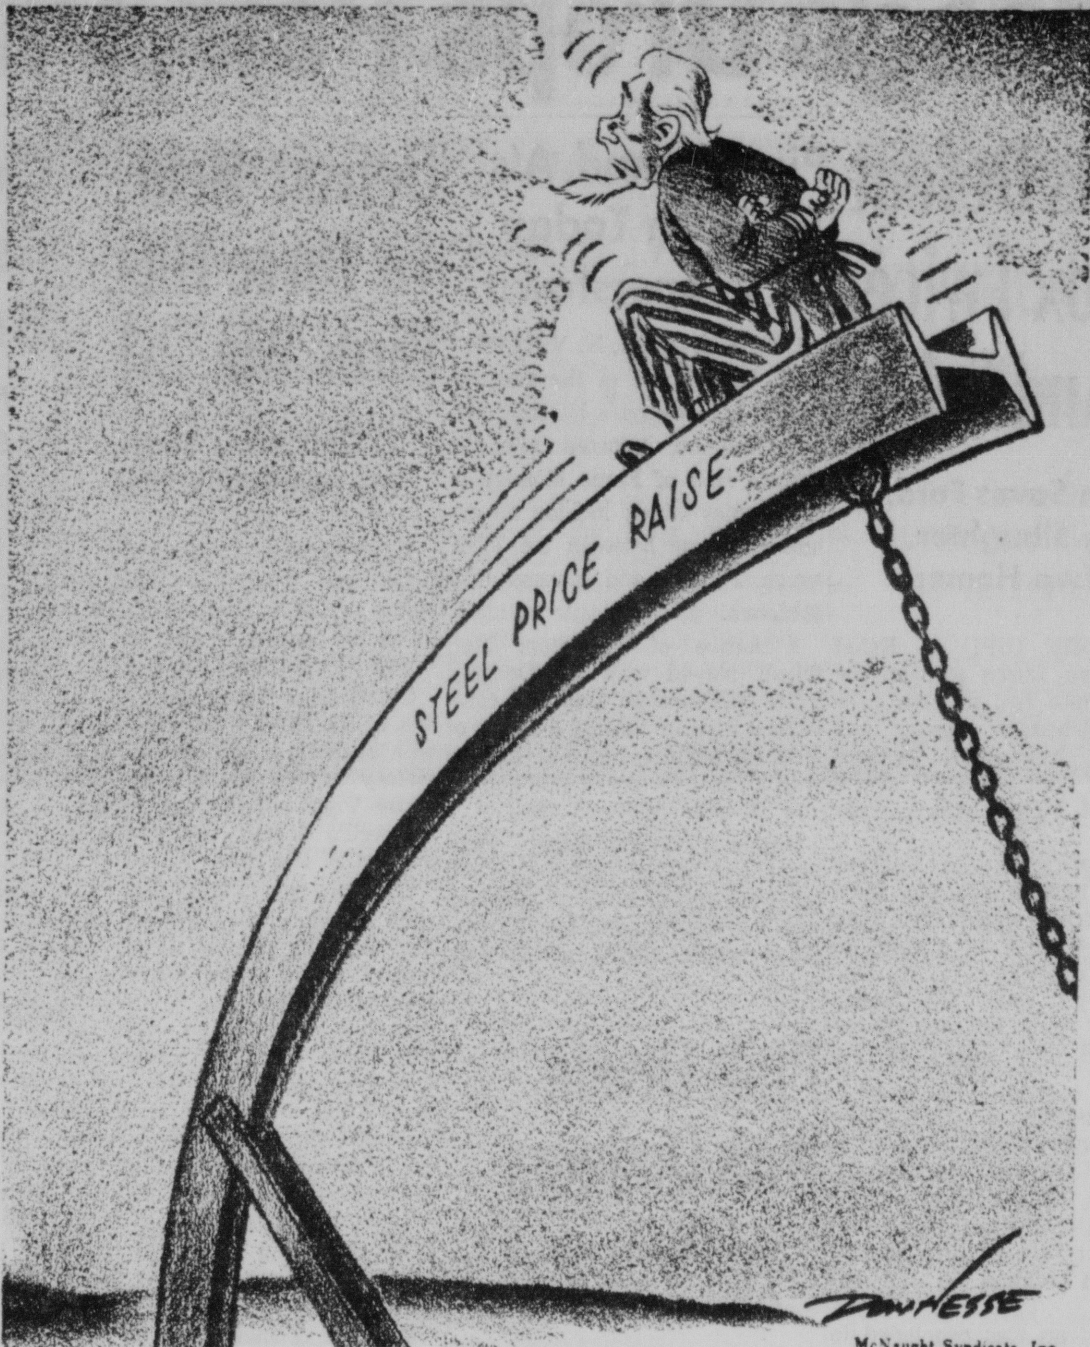

Khrushchev has sent two emissaries here to try out the American people. Mikoyan did quite well in his public relations although he left no permanent impression behind him, except that as a salesman, he tried to over-sell his product. Kozlov did not do so well in his public relations, perhaps because he had never been here before and he is not a particularly clever person. He also believes in Soviet propaganda, namely, that a capitalist will do anything for a dollar—sell his mother into prostitution, pervert his own children and betray this country. In his private conversations with businessmen, he has been offering more than he has to give and some of his barter promises are too ridiculous except for the most naive businessmen.

However, the Bolshoi Ballet was a success and it is presumed that the Moscow State Orchestra will be a success. What such performances do for peace, it is yet to be seen. Thus far, Gromyko seems not to be affected by them.

None of this people-to-people business has produced any practical results. Soviet Russia proceeds on its imperialist way and will not change its world program because a few well-dressed capitalists applaud a ballet dancer or laughed at one of Mikoyan's jokes. The solid business of averting war is still ahead of both countries and will have to be based on something more solid than a male dancer jumping in the air.

Lyndon Johnson And The New Civil Rights Bill

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON
In August 1957, at the stern insistence of two Democrats from Texas, the Congress passed the first civil rights bill since the Reconstruction era ended and the South was effectively re-admitted to the Union.

In August 1959, the Congress can be expected to pass still another civil rights bill, moderate yet substantial like the last one. Once again, the prime movers in the matter, the true authors of the action taken, will be Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Baines Johnson and Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn.

The signs are now plain for all who can read them. Early in the week, Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee Rep. Emanuel Celler and the Committee's senior Republican, Rep. William M. McCulloch, emerged from executive session to tell the world that they would report a bill by the end of this week.

More important still, the Constitutional Rights Sub-Committee of the Senate Judiciary Committee voted 4 to 3 on Wednesday to present "a clean bill" to the full committee. The Judiciary Committee Chairman, Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi, can still be expected to fight a long and bitter rear guard action. But the Chairman of the Sub-Committee, Sen. Thomas Hennings of Missouri, has the votes on his side—nine of them to be specific.

Majority Leader Johnson will further provide ample time for argumentative committee meetings. Providing time to let Sen. Eastland talk himself out is the real purpose of the day's recess that the Senate is expected to take next Monday. Other Senate business is in fact to be subordinated to the grand, central task of getting the Judiciary Committee to send a bill to the floor.

It hardly matters what bill is reported. Last week, Sen. Johnson sent a messenger to the House side, to beg Rep. Celler to report President Eisenhower's civil rights bill without altering a comma, if this was needed to secure the Republican vote in Celler's committee. A bill in the House Rules Committee. Pry a bill loose first, and rewrite it later if need be, is the strategy in both House and Senate.

The task of bill-prying will be considerably harder in the House, where the Chairman of the Rules Committee, Howard W. Smith of Virginia, has a close ally in the new House Republican Leader, Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana. Even so, the main drama will be in the Senate, where Southern filibusters have beaten every other civil rights bill except the act of 1957. This time, it is safe to predict that there will be no true filibuster. The token filibuster of 1957 may not even be repeated.

It is also fairly safe to predict the new civil rights bill's final form. The measure approved by the Sub-Committee of the Senate Judiciary Committee forecasts the end result.

The first main provision, borrowed by Lyndon Johnson's civil rights bill, extends the life of the

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

The Administration and Washington news correspondents were deeply disturbed over the statements made by First Soviet Deputy Premier Frol Kozlov during his speech to the press.

They were particularly perturbed at his statement, in response to a question, that if the West resorted to force in the Berlin crisis it would be met with force.

True, there was nothing new in the statement. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and other Russian leaders have been saying the same thing for months.

What is significant is that Kozlov insisted that questions be submitted in advance. The Soviet embassy scanned literally hundreds of them prior to his appearance, and the question concerning use of force in Berlin was deliberately chosen for reply by the Russians.

This is the first time since the Geneva foreign ministers' conference recessed that a top-ranking Russian has repeated the threat. That is the reason for official and unofficial concern. It doesn't speak much for a Berlin settlement as the diplomats reconvene in Geneva.

Radiation, Cancer, And Some Unfounded Fears

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A relationship exists between cancer and overexposure to X-ray, radium, atomic fallouts, and natural radiation (from rocks, soil, water). Fatalists, alarmists, and writers who love to make people squirm, have picked up this association and made many persons fearful, uneasy, and unhappy. The genetic effects are a different problem.

At present, the risk of getting a tumor from existing radiation is almost negligible. According to Dr. Austin M. Brues, the chance of developing a bone tumor from a known source of radiation is about the same as the chance of developing lung cancer from smoking 2.4 cigarettes per day. This ratio is not very high, considering that the majority of victims of malignancy of the lung are heavy smokers.

Skin cancers were common among the X-ray pioneers because years ago radiologists did not know that overexposure led to malignancies. Leukemia also is more common in this group. The modern roentgenologist protects himself by wearing lead lined gloves and apron. But the risk of skin cancer from the sun is hundreds of times greater than from radiation, especially among those living in the south or south-west where sunshine is a daily affair.

All this does not mean that we should disregard fallouts and use X-ray and radium indiscriminately. Our scientists should keep daily tab on how much exposure we receive and continue to work on ways to nullify the effects of these rays on our bodies. After all, if more countries started experimenting with atomic bombs, the fallout would double or triple.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

To Harry Hershfield goes credit for the story of the woman who went to a delicatessen for some corned beef. "How much?" inquired the clerk. "Never mind how much. Cut!" she ordered. After several slices, the clerk asked, "Is that enough?" "No. Cut! cut!" she demanded impatiently. After watching him intently while he sliced some minutes more, she finally queried, "Is this the center of the corned beef?" Yes, lady," he replied wearily. "Ah hah," she nodded. "Now give me ten cents worth of that part."

Caskie Stinnett, bound by plane from Philadelphia to New Orleans, heard one pretty hostess whisper to her assistant. "Careful, Toots, if you have to carry anything up front. They've got the automatic pilot on."

Hermann Schnapps is the name of one of the town's trustiest wine tasters. He's unsteadily employed.

Mr. Stewart Bows To Lady Senator, Puts In Flying Time For Promotion

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Stewart, who has won many a woman's heart with his acting in "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," "The Glenn Miller Story," "The Spirit of St. Louis" and many other movies, has been forced to surrender to the lone lady of the Senate.

He has finally put in all his reserve flying time to qualify for promotion as a reserve Air Force general. He surrendered after Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine remained adamant that it was not fair to drop some 60,000 less-glamorized Air Force officers because they failed to fill reserve requirements, then turn around and let a star-stuffed actor get promoted without flying time.

So just before the end of the fiscal year June 30, Stewart managed to squeeze in the required flying time, and Mrs. Smith is now voting for his confirmation. She will also give the green light to Gen. John B. Montgomery, an Air Force officer who left the Air Force for a lush salary with American Airlines, then transferred to General Electric, now wants to be an Air Force Reserve general.

Earlier Senator Smith objected because Montgomery hadn't fulfilled his flying time. So the General Electric tycoon has not only been up in the ozone in his flying machine, but is even taking correspondence courses to pass Air Force Reserve requirements—all in deference to a lady who believes in equal reserve standards regardless of glamor.

Steel Strike Cross-Fire

To gauge what's going to happen in the steel strike you have to understand some of the difficult cross-currents inside the union, inside the steel industry, and inside the Eisenhower administration. Here are some of them:

Cross-current No. 1 is inside the United Steelworkers where David J. McDonald has not been too popular with his men. In April, 1957, Donald C. Rarick, a relative unknown, ran against McDonald for president and rolled up the amazing total of 223,516 votes. McDonald got 404,172. Rarick had no build-up, no chance to campaign, and his vote was largely one of protest against McDonald.

During the current steel negotiations, most union members have not wanted a strike. Too many had been out of work during the '57-'58 recession.

Now that the strike has been called, however, it should solidify McDonald's union behind him. He didn't want the strike, but will benefit from it.

Cross-Current No. 2 is among the steel executives. In the past they have played ball with McDonald, and he with them. It has been a cooperative union-industry relationship. When wage increases were granted, the increase was passed on to the public—plus.

Recently, however, a new set of executives has taken over Big Steel. The days of Ben Fairless, who worked his way up from coal miner to be chairman of the giant U.S. Steel Corporation, are over. Younger, tougher Roger Blough is now running U.S. Steel. Eugene Grace, 82-year-old czar of Bethlehem Steel, and Tom Girdler, iron-fisted boss of Republic Steel, resisted union organization like tyrants. But once the union was recognized, they cooperated. New executives have replaced them. Charles White, new head of Republic Steel and more profane than any steel pudler ever thought of being, is far more difficult to get along with than Tom Girdler.

Months ago, the steel executives decided there was going to be a showdown with the union. The decision went higher up than even the steel industry. The bankers, the auto manufacturers as the chief users of steel, and those who sit around the Duquesne Club in Pittsburgh, all decided that now was the time and McDonald's union the place to take a stand against the continued round of wage hikes.

Cross-current No. 3 is inside the administration, between the President on one hand and Vice President Nixon with Secretary of Labor James Mitchell on the other.

Nixon and Mitchell have hoped for a compromise. Nixon even suggested to some of his steel friends that they could afford a wage increase of eight cents an hour without passing the increase on in higher prices. He got a flat turnout.

Neither Nixon nor Mitchell could push their ideas, however, in the face of Ike's opposition—and Ike has been sold on an adamant policy of keeping hands off. The men who sold him are the three who are perhaps closer to him than any others in the world and all of them steel executives—ex-Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, now head of National Steel; Jim Black, vice president of Republic; and George Allen, director of Republic.

This was why a federal mediator didn't get into the picture until the last day of the talks, which is unheard of when the nation faces a major economic shut-down.

Conclusion: The strike will be a long one, unless Ike and friends decide to conclude a settlement. If so, they can end it almost overnight.

Backstage At Geneva

Secretary Herter is arguing as much with French Foreign Minister Couve de Murville as he is with Foreign Minister Gromyko. De Murville came back from Paris with the toughest kind of instructions from General de Gaulle against accepting any compromise of the allied stand in Berlin. As a result, Herter has been meeting as much with the French as he has with the Russians. . . . Morale in West Berlin is getting lower and lower. The West Berliners believe they will be sold down the river by Secretary Herter and Britain's Selwyn Lloyd. Anyone who says hello to Kokey says it en passant. He is a highly nervous man who has been chasing a dollar for a good number of years, never quite getting it. At 47, Kokey has a few hitches and ties, but his feet are good and he chases the buck all over Miami Beach in the winter and all over Asbury Park in the summer.

His name is Irving Kolker and he is a gentle person with big brown eyes and wrinkle-proof skin on his face and head. When he was a little boy in Southward School in Philadelphia he wanted to own a night club and get rich. Since then, Kokey has become the world's champion Opener of Wrong Doors. This is what makes him nervous.

In the sunset of the prohibition years, a gangster named Boo-Boo-Hoff owned a club in Philadelphia called the Piccadilly. His stars were Van and Schenck, and he beat them so badly at dice that, with the innate generosity of the born sadist, he said: "You like the Piccadilly? It's yours." They were so numb, they took it.

Their first bus boy was Irving Kolker. He earned $1 a day and he worked seven days a week. He carried trays of dirty dishes and took abuse, and after a year Kokey found he was no closer to owning the Piccadilly than Van and Schenck were to beating Boo-Boo. So he quit and started selling newspapers at Broad and Walnut, always with an eye to a fast buck. Then, one day, his father told him that rayon had been discovered.

Kokey didn't know what rayon was, but his dad said it looked like silk and felt like silk, but it wasn't. Kokey saw the quick buck, and took a few bolts of it to Corpus Christi and sold it to the Mexicans as silk. They bought it once, but not twice, so, in 1935, Kokey went back home, borrowed a little here and there and went off to Miami to buy a night club and get rich.

He bought into a place owned by Marty Richmond called the Bolero. "It was a bamboo joint," he says sentimentally, "with a bunch of Cuban girls dressed as Hawaiians. Who knows from nothing in a grass skirt?" The partnership paid off. Kokey left with $3,500. He went into the Embassy Lounge as manager and got five per cent of the gross. His bank roll was up to $5,000 when the war came.

Kokey went off with the First Division. A lot of faithless people heard about it and started selling their war bonds. He got as far as England and he was dozing in a barracks when a buzz bomb went off nearby and blew the ear that was off the pillow inside out. The U.S. Army sent Kokey home and he bought into the Club 22 in Miami Beach.

He had a club, but no attraction. Also no booze except 25 cases of creme de menthe. Kokey brought in a bunch of strip teasers and said one serious thing to them: "If a man wants to buy you a drink, you want creme de menthe on the rocks. Understand?" They understood.

In three days he had the only stable of strippers singing with green teeth. Kokey took a look, paid everybody off, and stepped out broke. It has been like that in many clubs. He opened B. S. Pulley's Pump Room in South Miami Beach and Pulley took some of the losses out of the till and bet it on rheumatic horses.

At the Fisherman's Wharf, Kokey tried the spectacular. "I put up a big sign. It said Thirty Girls Thirty and then I hired 18 girls and Zorita and her snakes." His partners took the money and Kokey left and opened the Harem Club. Always, he made a living. Just a living.

In 1952, his rich friend Edward N. Fielding took Kokey to Europe to bring back the Folies Bergere. The Folies was in no mood to be brought. So the boys came home and Fielding bought the Beachcomber in Miami Beach for $72,000 down payment with guess who as a partner. Kokey booked 25 girls and Lili St. Cyr. The nut was $10,000 a week.

That one died. In Philadelphia, Kokey saw a Negro group called the Will Mastin Trio featuring Sammy Davis. They were earning $1,250 a week but, when Kokey got finished bargaining with them, they were earning $6,000 a week at his place. Fielding dropped $150,000.

This summer, Kokey has the food and drink concession at the Monterey Hotel in Asbury Park. He's still stepping off the dock just as someone pulls the gangplank. He has just opened a richly decorated lounge called the Pin Up Room. It seats 80 people and features a good jazz singer named Johnny Pace. Kokey might make it at the Monterey. I don't know. He owns '50 per cent of Pace and 100 per cent of a great recipe for cheese cake.

Showing Off The Savannah

Mamie Eisenhower will wield the traditional bottle of champagne against the hull of the world's first nuclear-powered merchant ship, the N. S. Savannah, on Tuesday at Camden, N. J. All eyes of course will be on the future, and there will doubtless be references to President Eisenhower's statement of October 15, 1956 calling the ship "a floating laboratory . . . a forerunner of atomic merchant and passenger fleets which one day will unite the nations of the world in peaceful trade."

That rosy future, however, is a long way off. Viewed in purely economic terms, the Savannah will be a sea-going white elephant. The required investment—about $42.5 million—and the poor cargo-to-size ratio badly overbalance the advantage conferred by relatively low operating costs. Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, asked in May to evaluate the commercial prospects of atom-powered cargo vessels, answered with one syllable: "Dim!"

But then few expect the Savannah to bring in a six per cent return, either in dollars or scientific data. It is a demonstration project, one that can be sailed the world over to show off American skill and, more important, to prove our sincerity about beating swords into plowshares.

And an impressive exhibit it will be. Sleek and modern in design, the Savannah will have a maximum power capacity of 74 million watts and will be able to sail 300,000 nautical miles without refueling—that is, for about three full years. These whopping statistics are likely to make the Savannah as effective an instrument of U.S. foreign policy as we've sent abroad since the days of (sh-h-h) gunboat diplomacy.

The Summit Puzzle

No matter how one analyzes the Russian pressure for a summit conference, it does not add up. The Geneva Conference could have reached some conclusion; it did not because obviously Khrushchev will not permit a conclusion to be reached except when he is present. All the time that the last Geneva Conference was in session, he sabotaged it from the sidelines. Now that another Geneva Conference is in session, it will be interesting to see whether he can remain silent for the duration.

According to Frol Kozlov, the current Geneva Conference will propose an 18-month truce. The best hope for it is that the entire subject of Berlin will be postponed until 1961, which is a long way off. Perhaps the Russians are hopeful that the 1960 election in the United States will bring Democrats into office and that they will fare better with a Democrat than with a Republican. Surely, there can be no basis for such a treasonable thought. Kozlov must have learned that so far as Russia is concerned we are a united people.

There is a further weakness in Russian thought on the summit conference. It is based on the assumption that the President of the United States can do as he chooses. Perhaps the Russians have reached that conclusion from Stalin's experience with Franklin D. Roosevelt at Teheran and Yalta. Roosevelt always went off on his own and managed to get the Senate to go along with him.

Senator Arthur Vandenberg, who was the Republican leader in foreign affairs during Roosevelt's Administrations, went along with the President although he had started his career as a Middle Western isolationist. In fact, except for a few irreconcilables, Roosevelt had little trouble with his Republicans.

However, times are different now and no President can do many of the things Roosevelt did or assume such great national obligations as Roosevelt did at Yalta. It would not be tolerated today.

What a summit conference entails for a President of the United States is a constant pressure on the part of the Russians for an immediate decision on specific matters which are beyond the authority of the President to make without "the advice and consent of the Senate. And when a matter involves Senatorial consent, it also involves open debate and free discussion in the press.

Roosevelt had a war to help him. Eisenhower does not have equal power of secrecy and censorship. As a matter of fact, the American people regard the present indirect censorship as excessive and there can be little question but that sooner or later the chairman of some Congressional committee will make himself a reputation by exposing the free use of such rubber stamps as "Classified," "Secret," etc. This can be and undoubtedly is a form of censorship not authorized by an act of Congress but characterized by military men and other officials since war days.

Khrushchev has sent two emissaries here to try out the American people. Mikoyan did quite well in his public relations although he left no permanent impression behind him. Except that as a salesman, he tried to over-sell his product. Kozlov did not do so well in his public relations, perhaps because he had never been here before and he is not a particularly clever person. He also believes in Soviet propaganda, namely, that a capitalist will do anything for a dollar—sell his mother into prostitution, pervert his own children and betray this country. In his private conversations with businessmen, he has been offering more than he has to give and some of his barter promises are too ridiculous except for the most naive businessmen.

However, the Bolshoi Ballet was a success and it is presumed that the Moscow State Orchestra will be a success. What such performances do for peace, it is yet to be seen. Thus far, Gromyko seems not to be affected by them.

None of this people-to-people business has produced any practical results. Soviet Russia proceeds on its imperialist way and will not change its world program because a few well-dressed capitalists applaud a ballet dancer or laughed at one of Mikoyan's jokes. The solid business of averting war is still ahead of both countries and will have to be based on something more solid than a male dancer jumping in the air.

Catapult To Inflationland

Lyndon Johnson And The New Civil Rights Bill

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON — In August 1957, at the stern insistence of two Democrats from Texas, the Congress passed the first civil rights bill since the Reconstruction era ended and the South was effectively re-admitted to the Union.

In August 1959, the Congress can be expected to pass still another civil rights bill, moderate yet substantial like the last one. Once again, the prime movers in the matter, the true authors of the action taken, will be Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson and Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn.

The signs are now plain for all who can read them. Early in the week, Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee Rep. Emanuel Celler and the Committee's senior Republican, Rep. William M. McCulloch, emerged from executive session to tell the world that they would report a bill by the end of this week.

More important still, the Constitutional Rights Sub-Committee of the Senate Judiciary Committee voted 4 to 3 on Wednesday to present "a clean bill" to the full committee. The Judiciary Committee Chairman, Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi, can still be expected to fight a long and bitter rear guard action. But the Chairman of the Sub-Committee, Sen. Thomas Hennings of Missouri, has the votes on his side—nine of them to be specific.

Majority Leader Johnson will further provide ample time for argumentative committee meetings. Providing time to let Sen. Eastland talk himself out is the real purpose of the day's recess that the Senate is expected to take next Monday. After Senate business is in fact to be subordinated to the grand, central task of getting the Judiciary Committee to send a bill to the floor.

It hardly matters what bill is reported. Last week, Sen. Johnson sent a messenger to the House side, to beg Rep. Celler to report President Eisenhower's civil rights bill without altering a comma, if this was needed to secure the Republican vote in Celler's committee. A bill in the House Rules Committee. Pry a bill loose first, and rewrite it later if need be, is the strategy in both House and Senate.

The date of bill-prying will be considerably harder in the House, where the Chairman of the Rules Committee, Howard W. Smith of Virginia, has a close ally in the new House Republican Leader, Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana. Even so, the main drama will be in the Senate, where Southern filibusters have beaten every other civil rights bill except the act of 1957. This time, it is safe to predict that there will be no true filibuster. The token filibuster of 1957 may not even be repeated.

It is also fairly safe to predict the new civil rights bill's final form. The measure approved by the Sub-Committee of the Senate Judiciary Committee forecasts the end result.

The first main provision, borrowed by Lyndon Johnson's civil rights bill, extends the life of the Civil Rights Commission by another three years. The second main provision is borrowed from the President's bill. It greatly strengthens the Attorney General's existing authority to safeguard Negro voting rights in federal elections, by giving the Justice Department legal access to voting records and other data needed to prove a denial of voting rights.

Such a measure will not satisfy the Northern extremists. They say they want what would amount to a force bill to impose school desegregation (and would faint with alarm if such a bill actually passed). But such a measure will constitute another important step down an agonizingly difficult road.

The credit will of course belong to many men. Sen. Hennings, for example, took fifty-seven solid hours of testimony in his subcommittee; and he made three previous tries to complete a bill before the final attempt that succeeded. But if a civil rights bill passes as now seems almost certain, the rock bottom reason will be the decision of Sen. Johnson and Speaker Rayburn that such a bill must pass.

Cynics will say that Sen. Johnson's loudly disavowed Presidential candidacy also has something to do with it—and no doubt this will be true. The passage of another substantial civil rights bill will of course greatly increase Johnson's availability for the Democratic nomination. But Johnson also believes in what he is doing. And in any case, the characteristic of a good political system is to produce good results from a mixture of motives.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

The Administration and Washington news correspondents were deeply disturbed over the statements made by First Soviet Deputy Premier Frol Kozlov during his speech to the press.

They were particularly perturbed at his statement, in response to a question, that if the West resorted to force in the Berlin crisis it would be met with force.

True, there was nothing new in the statement. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and other Russian leaders have been saying the same thing for months.

What is significant is that Kozlov insisted that questions be submitted in advance. The Soviet embassy scanned literally hundreds of them prior to his appearance, and the question concerning use of force in Berlin was deliberately chosen for reply by the Russians.

This is the first time since the Geneva foreign ministers' conference recessed that a top-ranking Russian has repeated the threat. That is the reason for official and unofficial concern. It doesn't speak much for a Berlin settlement as the diplomats reconvene in Geneva.

Radiation, Cancer, And Some Unfounded Fears

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A relationship exists between cancer and overexposure to X-ray, radium, atomic fallout, and natural radiation (from rocks, soil, water). Fatalists, alarmists, and writers who love to make people squirm, have picked up this association and made many persons fearful, uneasy, and unhappy. The genetic effects are a different problem.

At present, the risk of getting a tumor from existing radiation is almost negligible. According to Dr. Austin M. Brues, the chance of developing a bone tumor from a known source of radiation is about the same as the chance of developing lung cancer from smoking 2.4 cigarettes per day. This ratio is not very high, considering that the majority of victims of malignancy of the lung are heavy smokers.

Skin cancers were common among the X-ray pioneers because years ago radiologists did not know that overexposure led to malignancies. Leukemia also is more common in this group. The modern roentgenologist protects himself by wearing lead lined gloves and apron. But the risk of skin cancer from the sun is hundreds of times greater than from radiation, especially among those living in the south or southwest where sunshine is a daily affair.

All this does not mean that we should disregard fallout and use X-ray and radium indiscriminately. Our scientists should keep daily tab on how much exposure we receive and continue to work on ways to nullify the effects of these rays on our bodies. After all, if more countries started experimenting with atomic bombs, the fallout would double or triple.

On the other hand, we must use good judgment. Safe radiation levels, at best, are educated guesses. We must not refuse to have the chest or stomach X-rayed because of fear of developing a tumor. These tests are life-savers, particularly when they detect a serious disease. Leukemia is more common in children who are born of mothers who had the pelvis and abdomen X-rayed during pregnancy. Other youngsters give a history of having received X-ray treatment over an enlarged thymus gland during infancy.

TOMORROW: Painful feet.

If your lad is indulging in consolation eating because of lack of affection, shower him with attention and he may be more willing to follow the dietary advice.

Mr. Stewart Bows To Lady Senator, Puts In Flying Time For Promotion

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Stewart, who has won many a woman's heart with his acting in "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," "The Glenn Miller Story," "The Spirit of St. Louis" and many other movies, has been forced to surrender to the lone lady of the Senate.

He has finally put in all his reserve flying time to qualify for promotion as a reserve Air Force general. He surrendered after Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine remained adamant that it was not fair to drop some 60,000 less-glamorized Air Force officers because they failed to fill reserve requirements, then turn around and let a star-stuffed actor get promoted without flying time.

So just before the end of the fiscal year June 30, Stewart managed to squeeze in the required flying time, and Mrs. Smith is now voting for his confirmation. She will also give the green light to Gen. John B. Montgomery, an Air Force officer who left the Air Force for a lush salary with American Airlines, then transferred to General Electric, now wants to be an Air Force Reserve general.

Earlier Senator Smith objected because Montgomery hadn't fulfilled his flying time. So the General Electric tycoon has not only been up in the ozone in his flying machine, but is even taking correspondence courses to pass Air Force Reserve requirements — all in deference to a lady who believes in equal reserve standards regardless of glamor.

Steel Strike Cross-Fire

To gauge what's going to happen in the steel strike you have to understand some of the difficult cross-currents inside the union, inside the steel industry, and inside the Eisenhower administration. Here are some of them:

Cross-current No. 1 is inside the United Steelworkers where David J. McDonald has not been too popular with his men. In April, 1957, Donald C. Rarick, a relative unknown, ran against McDonald for president and rolled up the amazing total of 223,516 votes. McDonald got 404,172. Rarick had no build-up, no chance to campaign, and his vote was largely one of protest against McDonald.

During the current steel negotiations, most union members have not wanted a strike. Too many had been out of work during the '57-'58 recession.

Now that the strike has been called, however, it should solidify McDonald's union behind him. He didn't want the strike, but will benefit from it.

Cross-Current No. 2 is among the steel executives. In the past they have played ball with McDonald, and he with them. It has been a cooperative union-industry relationship. When wage increases were granted, the increase was passed on to the public — plus.

Recently, however, a new set of executives has taken over Big Steel. The days of Ben Fairless, who worked his way up from coal miner to be chairman of the giant U.S. Steel Corporation, are over. Younger, tougher Roger Blough is now running U.S. Steel. Eugene Grace, 82-year-old czar of Bethlehem Steel, and Tom Girdler, iron-listed boss of Republic Steel, resisted union organization like tyrants. But once the union was recognized, they cooperated. New executives have replaced them. Charles White, new head of Republic Steel and more profane than any steel pudler ever thought of being, is far more difficult to get along with than Tom Girdler.

Months ago, the steel executives decided there was going to be a showdown with the union. The decision went higher up than even the steel industry. The bankers, the auto manufacturers as the chief users of steel, and those who sit around the Duquesne Club in Pittsburgh, all decided that now was the time to take a stand against the continued round of wage hikes.

Cross-current No. 3 is inside the administration, between the President on one hand and Vice President Nixon with Secretary of Labor James Mitchell on the other.

Nixon and Mitchell have hoped for a compromise. Nixon even suggested to some of his steel friends that they could afford a wage increase of eight cents an hour without passing the increase on in higher prices. He got a flat turnaround.

Neither Nixon nor Mitchell could push their ideas, however, in the face of Ike's opposition—and Ike has been sold on an adamant policy of keeping hands off. The men who sold him are the three who are perhaps closer to him than any others in the world and all of them steel executives — ex-Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, now head of National Steel; Jim Black, vice president of Republic; and George Allen, director of Republic.

This was why a federal mediator didn't get into the picture until the last day of the talks, which is unheard of when the nation faces a major economic shutdown.

Conclusion: The strike will be a long one, unless Ike and friends decide to conclude a settlement. If so, they can end it almost overnight.

Backstage At Geneva

Secretary Herter is arguing as much with French Foreign Minister Couve de Murville as he is with Foreign Minister Gromyko. De Murville came back from Paris with the toughest kind of instructions from General de Gaulle against accepting any compromise of the allied stand in Berlin. As a result, Herter has been meeting as much with the French as he has with the Russians . . . Morale in West Berlin is getting lower and lower. The West Berliners believe they will be sold down the river by Secretary Herter and Britain's Selwyn Lloyd. The American Embassy has appealed to Vice President Nixon to stop off in Berlin on his way back from Russia to bolster Berlin morale. But Nixon has turned down the idea.

Keeping Up With Hollywood
by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Jack Warner makes no bones about the fact that his close friendship with General George C. Kenney long ago helped bring about Warner Bros. Don't Eat the Daisies for Joe general's book, "The Saga of Pappy Gunn" (no relation to Peter Gunn). Gen. Kenney was chief of the Allied air arm in the Southwest Pacific and his brilliant air war against Japan has made a secure place for him in military history.

Both the general and Jack agree that Jimmy Stewart, himself a bomber pilot, is the right star to play "Pappy", a daredevil of the Air Force in World War II. Mervyn Leroy, who did such a top job of directing Jimmy Stewart in "The FBI Story" at Warners has been sent the script of the war ace thriller and may return to Warners to direct it.

The familiar voice of my old friend Pola Negri came over the telephone from New York to tell me she goes to Germany to co-star in "The Mystery of the World," a mystery story of an atomic device supposed to destroy the world. William Dieterle will direct.

"I came out of semi-retirement to accept this offer," said Pola. "Germany has always been very lucky for me. I started there. We film the picture in Munich, West Berlin, Denmark and Hong Kong."

I hate to tell how many years ago it was that I wrote Pola's first interview after she arrived from Germany. She was a knock-out in "Passion," her first picture shown in this country after World War I.

On Wednesday, Debbie Reynolds, just back from Honolulu, reports for work at MGM on "Gazebo." She'll have very much the same setup she had in "It Started With a Kiss," and co-stars with Glenn Ford, with George Marshall directing.

She says she has a bad eye, because Carrie Frances, her two-and-a-half-year-old daughter, inadvertently kicked her in the eye on the plane.

"Gazebo," some recordings booked for Debbie, plus three or four other things on her agenda will keep the former Mrs. Eddie Fisher very busy. She was with Bob Neal and his sister and brother-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. William Dodge, at the "Porgy and Bess" premiere and party.

Patsy Kelly, that never-to-be-forgotten comedienne, is coming back to motion pictures after too long an absence. She has one of the character parts in "Please Don't Eat the Daisies" for Joe Pasternak.

One thing about Joe, he never forgets the old-time players with whom he has worked over the years. Wish there were more producers like him. He has also signed Margaret Lindsay, another gal who had an interesting motion picture career and who still looks like a million.

You'd think Tony Curtis would have all he could do with the pictures and TV shows for which he's been signed. But not Tony—he's a glutton for work.

He's now going to direct. Blake Edwards has given him one of the "Peter Gunn" TV series and if he'd handed Tony a million dollars he couldn't be more pleased. "Peter Gunn," as the world knows, is in the top 10 TV favorites.

There were two Mrs. Jimmy Stewarts at our table at the Beverly Hilton after the "Porgy and Bess" premiere. One was Gloria—her Jimmy was on location with "The Mountain Road." The other was the wife of James Stewart, vice president of Hollywood Park. Both were Kitty and Mervyn Leroy's guests.

At the auction to raise additional money for Cedars of Lebanon, George Burns paid $500 for a coat hanger, Jack Benny handed over $400 for a case of scotch and presented it to Dean Martin for doing so well as Frank Sinatra's assistant auctioneer. Merchant prince Tom may pay a fortune for two cases of scotch (which he doesn't drink); Kirk Douglas paid $2,000 for a diamond and pearl ring for his attractive Anne; Kitty Leroy paid a sizeable sum for a case of record albums, and so did Mrs. Abe Lastfogel. Banker Al Hart bought a diamond wristwatch, and they ribbed Harry Karl until he paid a record price for a pair of diamond earrings. Jack Warner bought a fur cape and his daughter, Mrs. Bill Orr, went home wearing it.

It was a wonderful evening and Mervyn was very proud of Kitty when she made a gracious speech opening the festivities. At our table were Nedda and John Logan, Cyd Charisse and Tony Martin.

Fire Interrupts

HETHERSGILL, England (UPI) —Farmer Frank Beatty was watching a television program Saturday about the work of the farm fire service when his set went dead. A fire on his farm cut off the electricity and destroyed 400 bales of hay.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

How graceful are the exits you make? Parting impressions are just as important as firsts!

Graceful Exits

There was an era in the past when people attached so much importance to the last impression that a rule of etiquette required one to step backwards out of a room rather than turn his back on any company! That would be slightly impractical and exaggerated action today, but even in this fast-moving world it's still possible to make a gracious exit no matter where you are or what you are doing.

If you wish to be remembered pleasantly, let your own sense of timing be your guide. When a party is over, a meeting concluded or an interview ended, don't be tempted to linger on the threshold of departure. Make your adieu sincerely, unburdened but firmly.

As a hostess, I'm sure you sympathize with the Powers Girl who said, "Everybody I know is welcome in my home, but when the curfew rings, I don't want them to ooze out. I want them to leave." How could anyone get anything but a bad impression of guests who repay your graciousness in seeing them to the door by keeping you there in a chill wind for a ten-minute exposition of an afterthought?

But the guest who takes your proffered hand, expresses appreciation of your hospitality and then turns his or her feet resolutely away, leaves a memory that lingers warmly and pleasantly!

Knowing how and when to end conversation and leave meetings in business or club life is a precious asset worth any woman's cultivation. No one can curry favor of a colleague by leaning against the doorway of his or her office eating up precious minutes with unimportant chatter. The hard-pressed "Madam Chairman" is definitely unimpressed by her co-members who stay to chatter and keep her from the after-meeting details to which she must attend before she herself can leave.

Anyone can learn to make a graceful exit in just about two seconds. Here's the whole secret: Remember that no matter how tempting an open door may be, it was not designed as a nook for tarrying but as an efficient means for quick escape!

TOMORROW: Added Weight Means Subtracted Grace

"DANCE THROUGH A WEEK TO BEAUTY" — Created exclusively for readers of this column, dance steps anyone can do. They bring increased grace and reduced measurements. ### ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

AK 10 5 ♥AKJ 6 ♦AQ 5 3 ♣K8

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 NT Pass 1 ♠ Pass

2 NT. Pass 3 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. This allows for all contingencies. If partner has a five card spade suit he might prefer to play the game in that suit. If his bid was based on a four card suit, he still has the option of returning to four hearts or three no trump.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

AK 7 4 ♥8 4 ♦A10 9 6 5 3 ♣AJ 7

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♥ 1 NT. Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—Three no trump. Your hand contains nine points which, with a six card suit, is ample to carry on to game. There is nothing to be gained by jumping in diamonds.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

AK 10 5 ♥AJ 10 6 3 ♦KJ 7 5 ♣3

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

Pass 1 ♠ 2 ♦ ?

What do you bid?

A.—Two hearts. While it is tempting to double the enemy a suitable bid for what may have been an impenetrable act, nevertheless such a step should be taken with caution when support for partner's suit is held. Vulnerability in this case militates against an early double. Chances for game are too bright to accept what might be an inadequate penalty. Were clubs and spades interchanged, we would favor the double.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

AK 6 4 3 ♥8 7 5 4 ♦KJ 3 ♣KJ

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♥ Double ?

What do you bid?

A.—Two hearts. Your values are mild and should be shown at once. A pass is not recommended for you may find it inconvenient to enter the auction on a later round.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

AK 4 ♥K Q 3 ♦K 3 2 ♣QJ 10 7 5 4

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Double

Redouble ?

What do you bid now?

A.—One or both of the opponents appear to be taking liberties with the truth. There is little doubt that your side has a game, inasmuch as your partner was strong enough to make a take-out double at such a high level. Perhaps the atmosphere would best be cleared by passing and permitting partner to rescue himself from the redouble. If he bids hearts you will raise, and if not, you may contract for game in clubs.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

AK 6 4 ♥8 7 5 2 ♦9 6 3 ♣8 6 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

2 ♦ Pass 2 NT. Pass

3 ♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three no trump. Except for the ace your hand is worthless and no inducement should be offered partner to go past the nine trick level.

Q. 7—As South, you have a 60 part score and hold:

AK9 8 6 3 ♥A ♦AKJ 10 ♣6 3

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

2 ♠ Pass 2 NT. 4 ♣ ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. This strategy is clearly indicated. Partner may be in a position to inflict a severe sting and he should be given the courtesy of the road. If he does not choose to double, he is obliged to proceed with the bidding inasmuch as your original bid was forcing to game.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

AK 10 9 6 3 ♥7 2 ♦J 9 8 3 ♣K 5

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ 2 ♥

Pass Pass ?

What do you bid now?

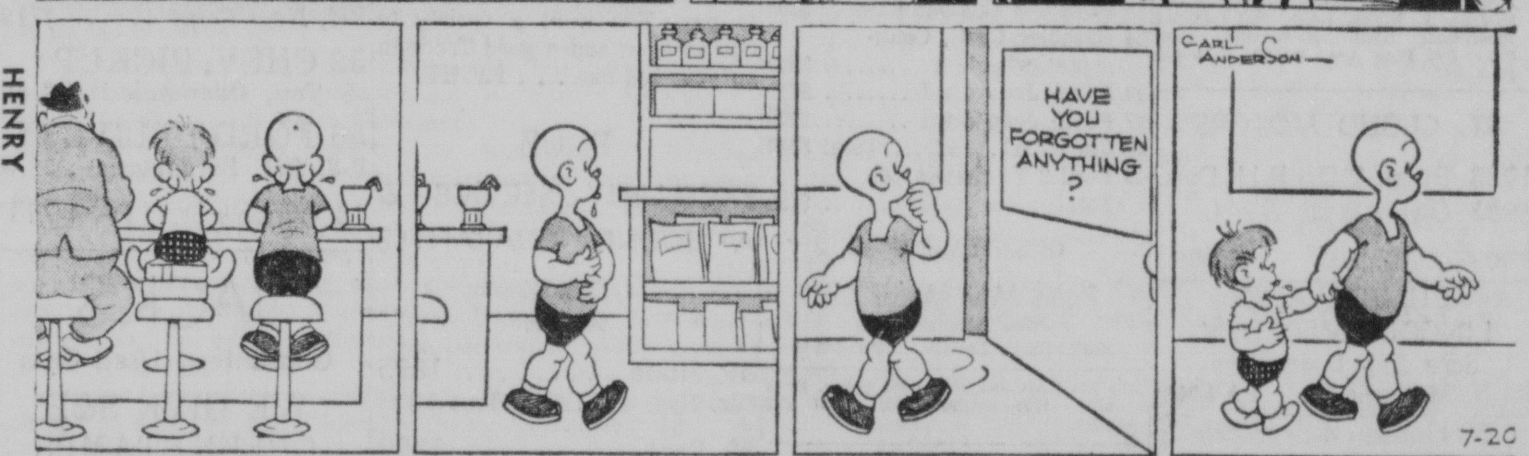

A.—Two spades. Opposite a partner who has opened the bidding, you cannot afford to sell out so cheaply, and though this is not strictly speaking a rebidtable suit, there is no other call available.

County Boy Is Killed In Collision

Edward F. Spates Dies In Crash Along Route 40

A 12-year-old Frostburg boy was killed and five other persons were hospitalized, two with critical injuries, in a head-on collision between two automobiles on U.S. Route 40 about eight miles west of Clear Spring about 6:30 last night.

The dead:
Edward Francis Spates, 78
Frost Avenue, Frostburg.

The injured:
William Francis Spates Sr., 42, same address, fractured jaw.

William Francis Spates Jr., 6, same address, chest injuries.

Patricia Ann Spates, 14 same address, fractured jaw.

Gilbert Allen Dukeman, 29, 6511 Baltimore Avenue, Baltimore, fractured left leg and pelvis.

Miss Lavoyce Blair, 21, 201 Patapsco Avenue, Baltimore, fractured jaw and chest injuries.

Attaches at Washington County Hospital in Hagerstown, where the injured were admitted, said late last night that Mr. Dukeman and Miss Blair both were in "critical" condition and the three members of the Spates family were in "fair" condition.

Mrs. Ruth Elizabeth Spates, 40, mother of the dead child, was treated at the hospital for possible back injuries but was not admitted.

State Trooper Norman Burleson, who investigated the crash, said the Spates car was traveling west and the Baltimore vehicle east on Route 40 midway between Clear Spring and Hancock in the rain.

The Dukeman car crossed into the westbound lane, causing the head-on crash, the trooper added.

Edward Francis Spates, who was sitting on the right side of the front seat, sustained a broken neck and was dead on arrival at the hospital in Hagerstown.

Trooper Burleson said no charges have yet been filed because he has not been able to talk with both drivers. His investigation is continuing.

Traffic was backed up in both directions after the terrific smash-up, and four ambulances had to be called to take the injured to Hagerstown. Ambulances came from Clear Spring, Hancock, and Berkeley Springs, W. Va.

Sawmill Burns On Mountain

Fire of undetermined origin yesterday afternoon destroyed a sawmill on the west side of Wills Mountain between Corriganville and Ellerslie.

Volunteer firemen from both communities went to the scene but were unable to save anything of value. The Corriganville Volunteer Fire Department responded with 10 men, headed by Second Assistant Chief William Clauson. They had to travel over an old logging road to reach the scene with two pieces of equipment.

Shortly thereafter, the Ellerslie Volunteer Fire Company arrived with a tanker and six volunteers. The Ellerslie firemen responded with three pieces of equipment but only the tanker could reach the destination over the almost impassable road. They remained at the scene from 2:30 until 4:30 p. m.

Firemen believe the blaze may have started from spontaneous combustion but they could not definitely establish a cause.

The sawmill was owned by a man from Friendsville but the firemen were unable to obtain his name.

City Garbage Contract Bids Are Due Today

Bids on a new garbage contract will be opened by the Mayor and Council today.

The contract will cover the collection and removal to the city dump of garbage, ashes, rubbish, paper, household trash and small dead animals.

The contract will be for a one-year period beginning October 1 but may be renewed year by year by the successful bidder for three additional years.

The amount of the low bid will affect the 1959-1960 budget. At present, $66,000 of the $72,000 garbage appropriation is for garbage collection.

In notice to bidders, the city pointed out that Charter Amendment Resolution No. 3 provides that employees of the contractor shall be governed by the same work week and hourly paid provisions as are applicable to like classifications among employees of the City of Cumberland.

This means that the contractor must meet wage increases which the Mayor and Council plan to provide during 1959-60 budget talks.

Mattress Burns; Boy Is Blamed

A six-year-old boy playing with matches was blamed for starting a fire which destroyed a mattress in a second floor apartment at 14 South Mechanic Street last night.

Mrs. Clara Boseley, a baby sitter, was with five children ranging in age between 12 years and 19 months, when the fire occurred about 8:30 p.m. Mrs. Boseley said the six-year-old boy was in the front room playing with matches when the fire started.

Firemen from Central Station were at the scene for 18 minutes from 8:35 until 8:54 p.m. They quickly doused the flames which had sent smoke through the apartment.

Mrs. Boseley told police and firemen that the mother of the five children, Mrs. Ruby Shugars, had left earlier in the day.

PPG Director Dies

PITTSBURGH (AP)—C. Robert Fay, director of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. and vice president in charge of the paint and brush division, died Sunday in Pittsburgh Hospital. He was 59.

Cause of death was not disclosed.

He is survived by his widow, Vivian, and three daughters.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday.

Branch Laboratory Silent Partner In Health Team

The silent partner in Allegany County's health team is the Maryland State Branch Laboratory.

Located on the third floor of the Public Safety Building here, the laboratory performs several thousand tests each month to protect the health of Allegany County residents.

The laboratory works closely with the Allegany County Health Department and physicians of Western Maryland, but is actually an independent unit and operates under the supervision of the State Laboratory of the State Department of Health in Baltimore.

The staff of the laboratory is headed by Miss Pauline A. Fisher, bacteriologist II. Other members of the staff are Mrs. Betty Malloy, bacteriologist III; Miss Erna Jean Robertson, laboratory assistant; Miss Sharon Brotemarkle, laboratory assistant; Miss Etta Price, laboratory helper, and Miss Florence A. inations.

Shaffer, senior stenographer. The work load at the laboratory is heavy, as can be seen from the totals for the first half of 1959, as quoted in the Health Department Newsletter.

During the six-month period, the laboratory handled 9,415 infectious disease specimens and made 23,226 examinations on them.

Bioanalytical laboratory work was done on 798 specimens and required 2,251 examinations.

Sanitary bacteriology required 3,849 examinations on 3,114 specimens.

Sanitary and drug chemistry was needed on only 277 specimens, but required 1,168 examinations.

Third Suspect Under Arrest For Burglary

$60 Stolen From Deaf, Blind Woman

A third suspect in the burglary of the home of an 83-year-old blind and deaf woman was arrested here yesterday morning by City Police Officers J. Carl Stouffer and Harry A. Iser.

He is Robert C. Bryant, 21, formerly of 940 Glenwood Street, who is understood to have been living more recently at 625 Repolo Street in Baltimore. The warrant signed by Detective Lt. James E. Van charges Bryant with the theft of $60 June 3 from Mrs. Mary A. Hamill, who lives at 910 Gay Street.

Bryant is expected to get a preliminary hearing in Trial Magistrate's Court today.

The first person charged with the burglary at the deaf and blind woman's home was Earl Richard Nixon, 20, of 916 Gay Street. After his arrest, he waived his right to indictment by the grand jury and requested an immediate trial. He pleaded guilty before Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court June 22.

A week later he drew a term not to exceed five years in the Maryland Reformatory for Males but the sentence was suspended and Nixon was paroled during good behavior for five years.

Last week Nixon was arrested as a parole violator and he has been scheduled for a hearing before Judge Harris at 1:15 p.m. today.

The case involving a 16-year-old boy also charged in the burglary was handled by Juvenile Court Magistrate Louis A. Fatkin.

Trucker Dies Of Injuries

A 29-year-old Frederick trucker died yesterday morning in Bedford (Pa.) Memorial Hospital of injuries sustained three days earlier when his tractor-trailer hit bridge abutment on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Thomas E. Wolfe of 202 Dill Avenue, Frederick, had been on the critical list ever since the accident Thursday morning.

Pennsylvania State Police at Everett reported that the Frederick trucker was driving east on the turnpike when he apparently fell asleep and rammed into the center support of a bridge about 10 miles west of Bedford.

State Police said Wolfe sustained a fractured skull and broken left leg in the turnpike crash.

Surplus Food To Be Distributed At Ridgeley

Nearby Mineral Counties eligible for surplus food were reminded last night by Mayor Charles H. Fryer of Ridgeley that the monthly distribution of the commodities will take place from 7 until 9 o'clock tonight at the Ridgeley City Building.

Surplus food available includes rice, flour, corn meal, powdered eggs and powdered milk. Those eligible for the food are requested to bring their own containers.

About 150 families from Ridgeley, Wiley Ford, Short Gap, Patterson's Creek and Fort Ashby are eligible for the surplus food. The Town of Ridgeley has handled the distribution for about two years. Previously, it was done by the Ridgeley American Legion Post.

West Side Firemen Are Called Twice

West Side firemen were called twice to the rear of the headquarters of the Military Order of the Purple Heart, 770-772 Greene Street, early yesterday.

Both times there was a small grass fire burning in the rear of the premises. The first call was at 2:55 a.m. and they were at the scene nine minutes. The second call was at 4:24 a.m. and they returned to the fire station 14 minutes later.

Farm Ponds Useful, But They Can Be Hazardous

Farm ponds, like any other body of water, attract people, especially youngsters in the summertime. When the two come together, there always is a chance of a tragic drowning.

This is a reminder that Martin M. Gordon, work unit conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service, is passing along to Allegany counties in view of National Farm Safety Week which opens today.

He said drownings have occurred in farm ponds of Washington County and on farms of nearby West Virginia and Pennsylvania. Fortunately, Allegany County, with about 74 farm ponds, has had none.

In order to make farm ponds safe, Mr. Gordon said, it is advisable to remove all trees, stumps and brush within the swimming area. Also remove all rubbish, wire, junk machinery and fences that might hinder safe boating and swimming.

Another good idea is to eliminate sudden dropoffs and deep holes in the swimming area.

PROMOTED — Ronald Harper, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Harper, 640 North Centre Street, has been promoted to southern district assistant general manager of Charlotte Textile Engravers. A 1950 graduate of Allegany High School, Mr. Harper was activated with the local Marine Reserve unit in 1950, and joined the textile firm after his discharge in 1952. He now lives in Greenville, S.C., with his wife, the former Katherine Hodges of Charlotte, N.C., and four children.

Tawes Orders Second Study Of Blue Cross

Planning Group To Investigate

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gov. Tawes has called for a second study of Blue Cross hospitalization insurance costs in Maryland.

The governor said Saturday he will ask Chairman Joseph Meyerhoff of the State Planning Commission to see that the commission's medical care committee advises him on the best procedures for setting up a study.

The subject also is included in ground to be covered by a Legislative Council committee headed by State Sen. John-Clarence North (D-Talbot).

Suggestions for more official information on hospital costs arose after State Insurance Commissioner F. Douglass Sears concluded a three-day hearing on a Blue Cross request for a 24.5 per cent rate increase. Attorneys opposing the request refused to continue with the hearing after Sears ruled that he could hear no evidence on hospital costs, upon which Blue Cross rates are based.

In another development Saturday, the Hospital Council of Maryland told North it would be glad to cooperate to "an objective and comprehensive public inquiry" into Blue Cross and hospital matters.

Blue Cross, operated by Maryland Hospital Service Inc., serves about one million Maryland subscribers.

Sears said he will not hand down his decision on the rate increase application for at least two weeks.

Hyman A. Pressman, Baltimore attorney representing a group of Blue Cross subscribers opposing the rate hike, has urged the commissioner to declare any increase he might grant a "temporary emergency" move, which would leave the door open to later reductions. Blue Cross officials have said failure to grant the increase would jeopardize the entire hospitalization insurance plan.

Lions To Hear Finan

Pops Concert Held In Shed During Rain

City Is Brushed By Thunderstorm

They played the "pops" concert in the rain last night in Constitution Park but nobody got wet.

The concert by the Cumberland Municipal Concert Band was scheduled at 8 p. m. in the amphitheater of the park but was moved to a nearby open shed as a result of rain.

Robert R. Golden, park superintendent, said about 150 music lovers heard the concert from inside the shelter while another 100 listened from cars parked nearby.

He said the popular selections were well received by the audience.

It wasn't much of a rain, he said, and it made the park "damp but not very wet."

The rain began as a thunderstorm which came out of the west about 4 p. m., drenched the city briefly and then moved to the north.

Light rain fell intermittently until early evening but the rainfall totaled only 17/100 of an inch.

Mr. Golden said this brings total rainfall for July to the 1.21 inch mark — still a long way to go to the normal 3.26 inches.

Thunderstorms riding on high winds struck portions of Maryland yesterday.

The central part of the state appeared hardest hit, particularly the Washington suburbs. On the Eastern Shore, Salisbury and Easton had reported no rain at all by 7 o'clock, the Weather Bureau said.

Homes in 14 communities in the Washington area were left without light and power for a time and a number of vehicles were demolished. The fierce southerly winds bowled over 75 to 100 power lines and about 100 trees in that section.

Pleasure-seekers at the Bethesda Country Club said the squall a s s u m e d tornado proportions when it hit there. Lights were knocked out, tables and umbrellas sent sprawling and trees were blown over on automobiles.

Only a portion of Washington itself was hit.

Storm conditions were severe in Harford County. Havre de Grace had high water in numerous places and trees were felled by the storm.

Electrical and telephone service was disrupted in the area. U. S. 40 traffic was one-way as water blocked the southbound lane and traffic backed up for about six miles from Aberdeen to the Susquehanna River bridge.

In the Baltimore area, .63 inch of rain fell in the span of an hour, delaying the finish of the Baltimore Orioles-Detroit Tigers baseball game. The Weather Bureau said other rainfall across the state included Cumberland .17 inch, Pikesville .87, Waterloo .76 and Hagerstown a trace.

Rev. H. L. May To Get Degree

Rev. Harold L. May, minister of Calvary Methodist Church, Ridgeley, and formerly assistant minister of Centre Street Methodist Church, Cumberland, will receive the A.B. degree from the College of Arts and Sciences of West Virginia University, Morgantown, this week.

Rev. May completes his undergraduate studies with a major in psychology and a minor in sociology. The degree is awarded at the close of the first summer session.

Rev. May plans to complete his education at Wesley Theological Seminary, Washington, but said he will not enter immediately due to his responsibilities as pastor of Calvary Church.

Rev. May completed a part of his educational work at Frostburg State Teachers College before enrolling at Morgantown.

Hercules Net Income Increases Over 1958

Hercules Powder Company reported for the six months ended June 30, 1959, net income equal to $1.36 a share of common stock.

Net income in the first six months of 1958 was equal to 89 cents a share of common stock.

For the second quarter of 1959, net income was equal to 79 cents a share of common stock. This compares with net income in the second quarter of 1958 equal to 51 cents a share.

Net sales and operating revenues for the six months' period were $137,200,312, compared with $116,773,028 for the corresponding 1958 period.

Volunteer firemen from both communities went to the scene but were unable to save anything of value. The Corriganville Volunteer Fire Department responded with 10 men, headed by Second Assistant Chief William Clauson. They had to travel over an old logging road to reach the scene with two pieces of equipment.

Shortly thereafter, the Ellerslie Volunteer Fire Company arrived with a tanker and six volunteers. The Ellerslie firemen responded with three pieces of equipment but only the tanker could reach the destination over the almost impassable road. They remained at the scene from 2:30 until 4:30 p. m.

Firemen believe the blaze may have started from spontaneous combustion but they could not definitely establish a cause.

The sawmill was owned by a man from Friendsville but the firemen were unable to obtain his name.

City Garbage Contract Bids Are Due Today

Bids on a new garbage contract will be opened by the Mayor and Council today.

The contract will cover the collection and removal to the city dump of garbage, ashes, rubbish, paper, household trash and small dead animals.

The contract will be for a one-year period beginning October 1 but may be renewed year by year by the successful bidder for three additional years.

The amount of the low bid will affect the 1959-1960 budget. At present, $66,000 of the $72,000 garbage appropriation is for garbage collection.

In notice to bidders, the city pointed out that Charter Amendment Resolution No. 3 provides that employees of the contractor shall be governed by the same work week and hourly paid provisions as are applicable to like classifications among employees of the City of Cumberland.

This means that the contractor must meet wage increases which the Mayor and Council plan to provide during 1959-60 budget talks.

Globe-Trotting Electrician Finds Home Town's Best

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Dreams of visiting faraway places, meeting the inhabitants, learning their customs and language and seeing unforgettable scenery, came true for a local man who has been working and traveling on foreign soil for the past nine years.

Charles Reed, of 348 Baltimore Avenue, who has flown thousands of air miles, has decided to take off his traveling shoes and settle down in his home town. He is getting back into the electrical contracting business he learned from his father years ago.

Accounts of places where he worked and visited would fill a large section of a travel agent's guide book.

He has done electrical work with large construction firms in Sumatra, Saudi Arabia, Morocco, the Azores, and Spain, and has vacationed in North Africa, Europe, India and China visiting such places as Eritrea, Lisbon, Rome, Genoa, Paris, London, Frankfurt, Zurich, Berlin, Shanghai, Bombay, Rangoon, Bangkok, Cairo, Beirut and Iraq.

Over Alps And Up The Rhine
Three times he has flown over the snow-covered Swiss Alps and has traveled about 100 miles up the Rhine River, the valley of which he describes as the most beautiful scenery in the world.

West Berlin and East Berlin are as different as day and night, he said. Residents of the west portion of the city seem to be happy and contented while those in the eastern section appear as if "their eyes are trying to look back to see who is following them," said Mr. Reed.

He has been sightseeing in regions around the Red Sea and the Persian Gulf where 70 per cent of the world's pearl supply reportedly is procured.

For the past three years he worked in Casablanca, Morocco, where he was a civilian employee of the U. S. Air Force and was foreman of the base electric shop. Eighteen months he worked as an electrical foreman on the construction of a huge hydro-former in Saudi Arabia, where the temperature ranged from 125 to 135 degrees during the day, "cooling off" to 105 degrees by night.

He has worked on huge construction projects including military bases and while in Saudi Arabia he was employed by the largest construction firm in the world.

A 16-story steel tower was constructed on the site, and one of Mr. Reed's jobs was installing a light atop the tower.

Sand . . . And More Sand
Sand, sand and more sand well describes Saudi Arabia, he said. It is level country with a sprinkling of date groves along the Persian Gulf.

While in Casablanca he met a French girl, Gisele Dahan, a graduate of Oran University in Algeria.

Third Suspect Under Arrest For Burglary

$60 Stolen From Deaf, Blind Woman

A third suspect in the burglary of the home of an 83-year-old blind and deaf woman was arrested here yesterday morning by City Police Officers J. Carl Stouffer and Harry A. Iser.

He is Robert C. Bryant, 21, formerly of 940 Glenwood Street, who is understood to have been living more recently at 625 Repolo Street in Baltimore. The warrant signed by Detective Lt. James E. Van charges Bryant with the theft of $60 June 3 from Mrs. Mary A. Hamill, who lives at 910 Gay Street.

Bryant is expected to get a preliminary hearing in Trial Magistrate's Court today.

The first person charged with the burglary at the deaf and blind woman's home was Earl Richard Nixon, 20, of 916 Gay Street. After his arrest, he waived his right to indictment by the grand jury and requested an immediate trial. He pleaded guilty before Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court June 22.

A week later he drew a term not to exceed five years in the Maryland Reformatory for Males but the sentence was suspended and Nixon was paroled during good behavior for five years.

Last week Nixon was arrested as a parole violator and he has been scheduled for a hearing before Judge Harris at 1:15 p. m. today.

The case involving a 16-year-old boy also charged in the burglary was handled by Juvenile Court Magistrate Louis A. Fatkin.

Trucker Dies Of Injuries

A 29-year-old Frederick trucker died yesterday morning in Bedford ("Pa.") Memorial Hospital of injuries sustained three days earlier when his tractor-trailer hit bridge abutment on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Thomas E. Wolfe of 202 Dill Avenue, Frederick, had been on the critical list ever since the accident Thursday morning.

Pennsylvania State Police at Everett reported that the Frederick trucker was driving east on the turnpike when he apparently fell asleep and rammed into the center support of a bridge about 10 miles west of Bedford.

State Police said Wolfe sustained a fractured skull and broken left leg in the turnpike crash.

Surplus Food To Be Distributed At Ridgeley

Nearby Mineral Counties eligible for surplus food were reminded last night by Mayor Charles H. Fryer of Ridgeley that the monthly distribution of the commodities will take place from 7 until 9 o'clock tonight at the Ridgeley City Building.

Surplus food available includes rice, flour, corn meal, powdered eggs and powdered milk. Those eligible for the food are requested to bring their own containers.

About 150 families from Ridgeley, Wiley Ford, Short Gap, Patterson's Creek and Fort Ashby are eligible for the surplus food. The Town of Ridgeley has handled the distribution for about two years. Previously, it was done by the Ridgeley American Legion Post.

West Side Firemen Are Called Twice

West Side firemen were called twice to the rear of the headquarters of the Military Order of the Purple Heart, 770-772 Greene Street, early yesterday.

Both times there was a small grass fire burning in the rear of the premises. The first call was at 2:55 a. m. and they were at the scene nine minutes. The second call was at 4:24 a. m. and they returned to the fire station 14 minutes later.

Farm Ponds Useful, But They Can Be Hazardous

Farm ponds, like any other body of water, attract people, especially youngsters in the summertime. When the two come together, there always is a chance of a tragic drowning.

This is a reminder that Martin M. Gordon, work unit conservator of the Soil Conservation Service, is passing along to Allegany counties in view of National Farm Safety Week which opens today.

He said drownings have occurred in farm ponds of Washington County and on farms of nearby West Virginia and Pennsylvania. Fortunately, Allegany County, with about 74 farm ponds, has had none.

In order to make farm ponds safe, Mr. Gordon said, it is advisable to remove all trees, stumps and brush within the swimming area. Also remove all rubbish, wire, junk machinery and fences that might hinder safe boating and swimming.

Another good idea is to eliminate sudden dropoffs and deep holes in the swimming area.

PROMOTED — Ronald Harper, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Harper, 640 North Centre Street, has been promoted to southern district assistant general manager of Charlotte Textile Engravers. A 1950 graduate of Allegheny High School, Mr. Harper was activated with the local Marine Reserve unit in 1950, and joined the textile firm after his discharge in 1952. He now lives in Greenville, S.C., with his wife, the former Katherine Hodges of Charlotte, N. C., and four children.

Tawes Orders Second Study Of Blue Cross

Planning Group To Investigate

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gov. Tawes has called for a second study of Blue Cross hospitalization insurance costs in Maryland.

The governor said Saturday he will ask Chairman Joseph Meyerhoff of the State Planning Commission to see that the commission's medical care committee advises him on the best procedures for setting up a study.

The subject also is included in ground to be covered by a Legislative Council committee headed by State Sen. John-Clarence North (D-Talbot).

Suggestions for more official information on hospital costs arose after State Insurance Commissioner F. Douglass Sears concluded a three-day hearing on a Blue Cross request for a 24.5 per cent rate increase. Attorneys opposing the request refused to continue with the hearing after Sears ruled that he could hear no evidence on hospital costs, upon which Blue Cross rates are based.

In another development Saturday, the Hospital Council of Maryland told North it would be glad to cooperate to "an objective and comprehensive public inquiry" into Blue Cross and hospital matters.

Blue Cross, operated by Maryland Hospital Service Inc., serves about one million Maryland subscribers.

Sears said he will not hand down his decision on the rate increase application for at least two weeks.

Hyman A. Pressman, Baltimore attorney representing a group of Blue Cross subscribers opposing the rate hike, has urged the commissioner to declare any increase he might grant a "temporary emergency" move, which would leave the door open to later reductions. Blue Cross officials have said failure to grant the increase would jeopardize the entire hospitalization insurance plan.

Lions To Hear Finan

Thomas B. Finan, Cumberland attorney and Maryland's Secretary of State, will address the Lions Club of Cumberland at its weekly luncheon meeting Wednesday at 12:15 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Serving On Submarine

Pops Concert Held In Shed During Rain

City Is Brushed By Thunderstorm

They played the "pops" concert in the rain last night in Constitution Park but nobody got wet.

The concert by the Cumberland Municipal Concert Band was scheduled at 8 p. m. in the amphitheater of the park but was moved to a nearby open shed as a result of rain.

Robert R. Golden, park superintendent, said about 150 music lovers heard the concert from inside the shelter while another 100 listened from cars parked nearby.

He said the popular selections were well received by the audience.

It wasn't much of a rain, he said, and it made the park "damp but not very wet."

The rain began as a thunderstorm which came out of the west about 4 p. m., drenched the city briefly and then moved to the north.

Light rain fell intermittently until early evening but the rainfall totaled only 17/100 of an inch.

Mr. Golden said this brings total rainfall for July to the 1.21 inch mark — still a long way to go to the normal 3.26 inches.

Thunderstorms riding on high winds struck portions of Maryland yesterday.

The central part of the state appeared hardest hit, particularly the Washington suburbs. On the Eastern Shore, Salisbury and Easton had reported no rain at all by 7 o'clock, the Weather Bureau said.

Homes in 14 communities in the Washington area were left without light and power for a time and a number of vehicles were demolished. The fierce southerly winds bowled over 75 to 100 power lines and about 100 trees in that section.

Pleasure-seekers at the Bethesda Country Club said the squall as a summer tornado proportions when it hit there. Lights were knocked out, tables and umbrellas sent sprawling and trees were blown over on automobiles.

Only a portion of Washington itself was hit.

Storm conditions were severe in Harford County. Havre de Grace had high water in numerous places and trees were felled by the storm.

Electrical and telephone service was disrupted in the area. U. S. 40 traffic was one-way as water blocked the southbound lane and traffic backed up for about six miles from Aberdeen to the Susquehanna River bridge.

In the Baltimore area, .63 inch of rain fell in the span of an hour, delaying the finish of the Baltimore Orioles-Detroit Tigers baseball game. The Weather Bureau said other rainfall across the state included Cumberland .17 inch, Pikesville .87, Waterloo .76 and Hagerstown a trace.

Rev. H. L. May To Get Degree

Rev. Harold L. May, minister of Calvary Methodist Church, Ridgeley, and formerly assistant minister of Centre Street Methodist Church, Cumberland, will receive the A.B. degree from the College of Arts and Sciences of West Virginia University, Morgantown, this week.

Rev. May completes his undergraduate studies with a major in psychology and a minor in sociology. The degree is awarded at the close of the first summer session.

Rev. May plans to complete his education at Wesley Theological Seminary, Washington, but said he will not enter immediately due to his responsibilities as pastor of Calvary Church.

Rev. May completed a part of his educational work at Frostburg State Teachers College before enrolling at Morgantown.

Hercules Net Income Increases Over 1958

Hercules Powder Company reported for the six months ended June 30, 1959, net income equal to $1.36 a share of common stock.

Net income in the first six months of 1958 was equal to 89 cents a share of common stock.

For the second quarter of 1959, net income was equal to 79 cents a share of common stock. This compares with net income in the second quarter of 1958 equal to 51 cents a share.

Net sales and operating revenues for the six months' period were $137,200,312, compared with $116,773,028 for the corresponding 1958 period.
